City considers purchase of undeveloped acreage

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL City Council may enter into negotiations for the purchase

New appointments possible for planning commission

THE CARMEL City Council will consider a new appointment to the Carmel Planning Commission and the reappointment of commissioner Stephen Poohar at the council's next meeting.

Commissioner Olof Dahlstrand informed Mayor Jean Grace he will not be seeking reappointment to the commission. Both his term and Poohar's expire in September.

Dahlstrand, an architect, was appointed by former-Mayor Clint Eastwood in 1986, and served as chairman from May 1988 to May of this year.

Dahlstrand is on vacation and is unavailable for comment.

Planning commissioners serve a four-year term. Dahlstrand was appointed to replace one of the commissioners whom Eastwood removed in 1986 and Poohar replaced Ken White, who was elected to the city council in 1988.

of the Hodges property, a parcel consisting of approximately 6.5 undeveloped acres located adjacent to Carmel Mission.

According to a preliminary agenda, at its Sept. 7 meeting the council will vote on the "consideration of initiation of real estate negotiations for the possible acquisition of the Hodges property." If the council votes to go ahead, it would then order an appraisal of the land which borders the river and appoint a negotiator.

The council's actions, if it votes to investigate the purchase, would be just the first of many steps before any final decision is made. Those steps would include a review by the planning commission to determine if acquisition of the land is in compliance with the general plan.

The council will meet about this issue and other items at 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7 in Carmel City Council Chambers at Carmel City Hall. The council rescheduled its normal Tuesday meeting to Thursday because of the Labor Day weekend.

The property is owned by the Hodges family and was once part of the Mission Ranch, but was purchased separately in 1949. It lies within the county and is bounded by Mission Ranch on the west, the Junipero Serra School's ball field on the east, Carmel Mission on the north and straddles the river along the south. The Carmel Mission property forms the city's southernmost boundary.

The Hodges property was not a part of the city's proposed purchase of Mission Ranch in 1985.

of Dolores Street and Lasuen Drive and the acreage is currently used by the Hodges family for Hodges Landscape and Design and personal recreation.

In a prepared statement, Mayor Jean Grace explained that the council would be asked to "explore the possible acquisition" of the land.

"This property lies immediately adjacent to the city and is mostly within the city's sphere of influence," Grace stated. "I large

Quail Meadows subdivision receives supervisors' OK

By DAVID LELAND

AFTER RECEIVING unanimous approval from county supervisors for the Quail Meadows subdivision, Ed Haber heaved a proverbial sigh of relief.

This week's decision marks more than 10 years of permit adjustments and environmental studies completed by Quail Lodge Inc., owner of Quail Lodge and Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Haber is CEO for that group.

"It was worth it," Haber said after the brief hearing at which no one objected to the project. "It's my first time in 42 years (of development) that there have been no objections by either the planning commission or the board of supervisors."

The Monterey County Planning Commission unanimously approved the subdivision earlier this summer.

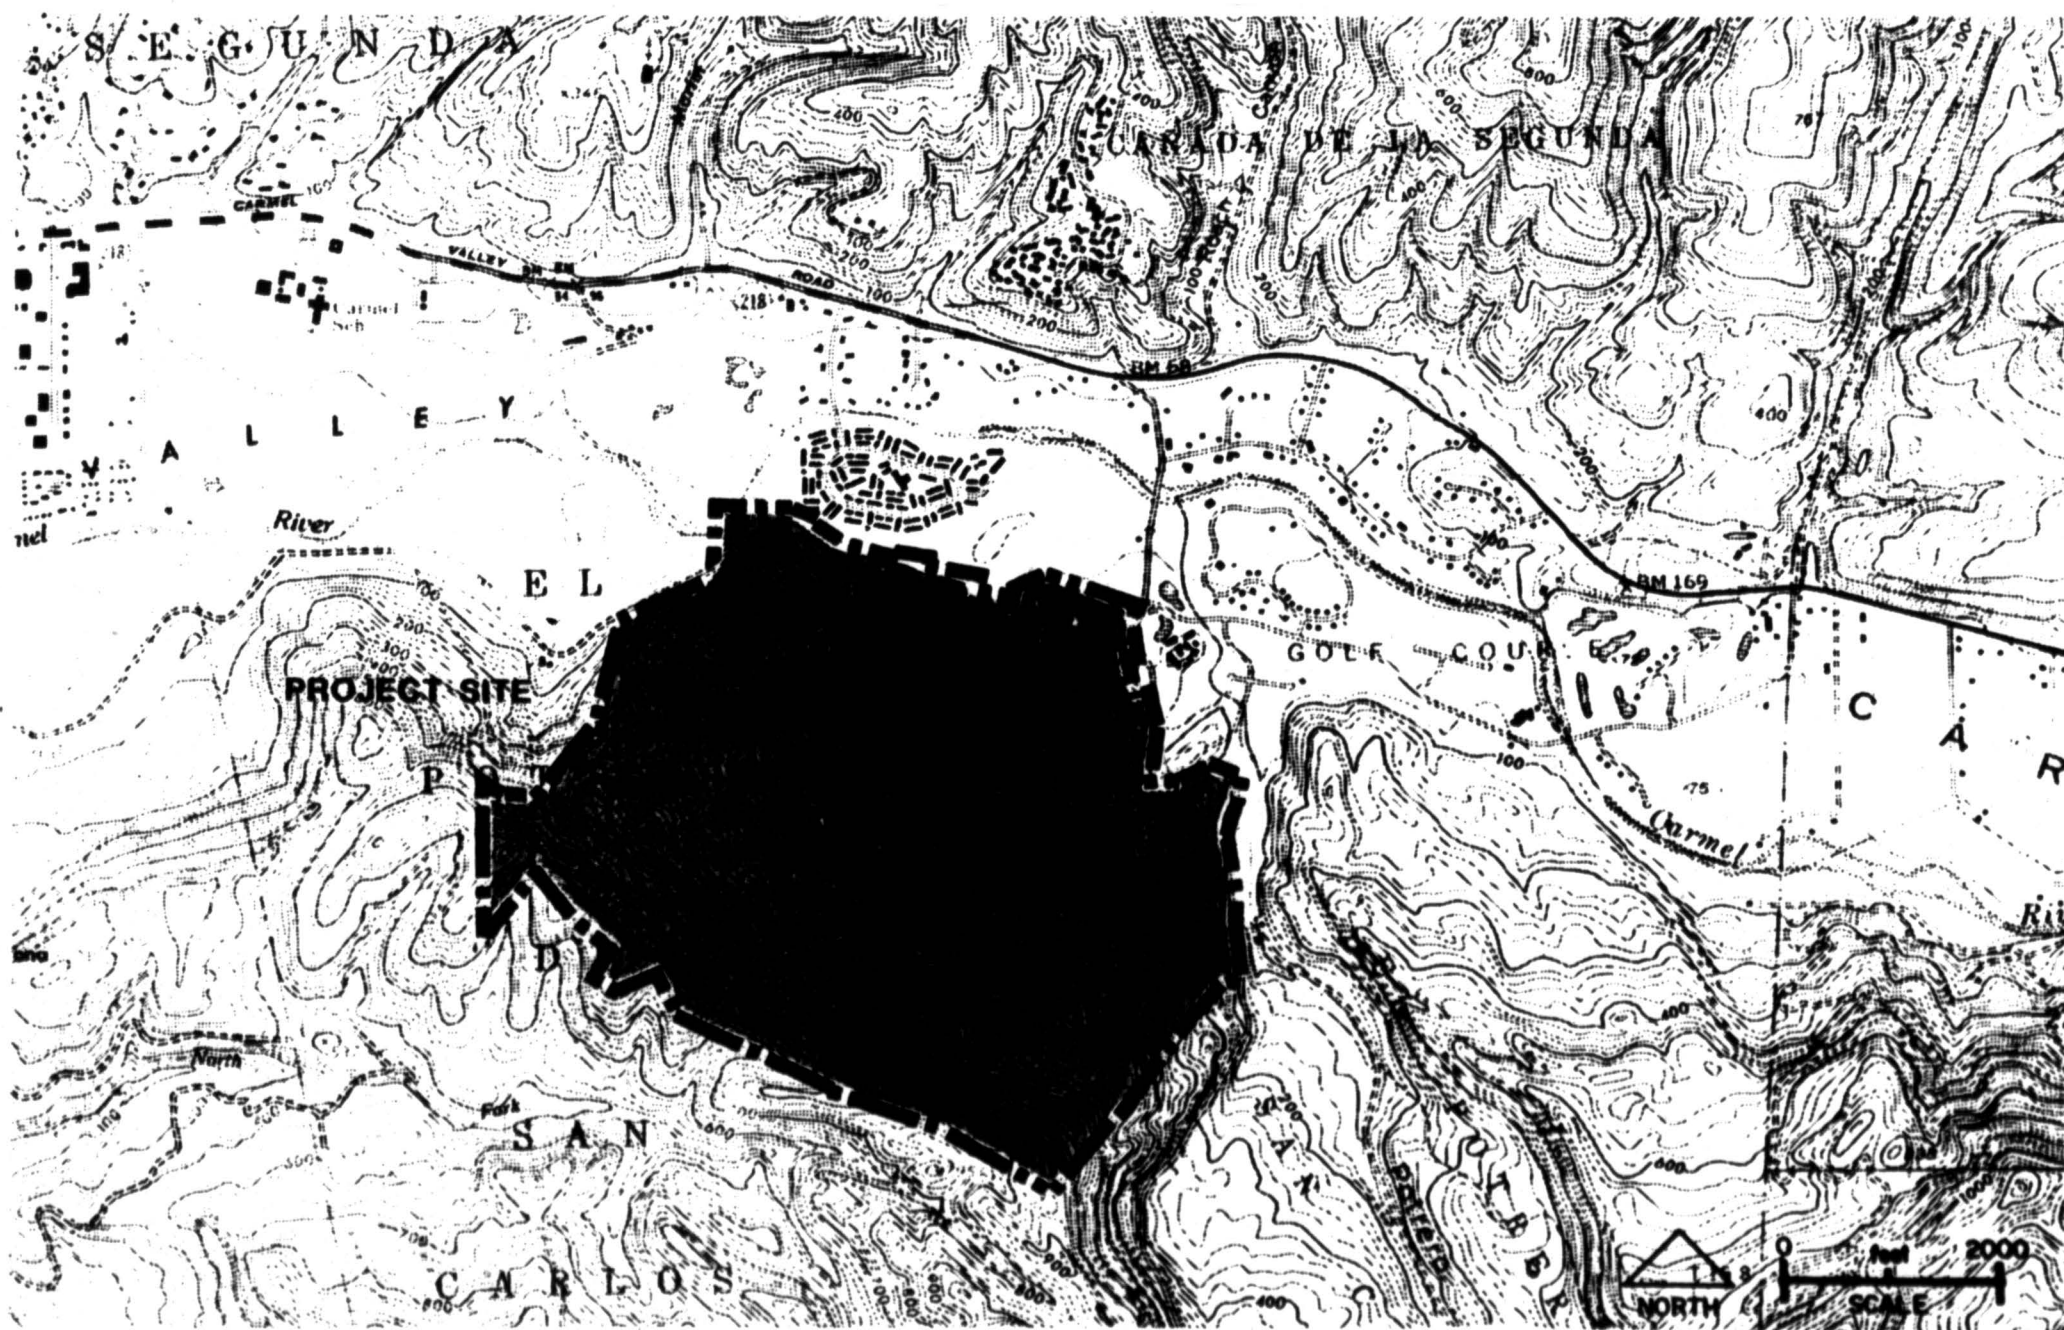

Quail Meadows' plans call for 56 lots to be developed on a 600-acre parcel overlooking a lake. Included in the project are a 40-room seminar center and nine units of inclusionary employee housing.

The Quail Meadows property is located in the lower Carmel Valley on the south side of Carmel Valley Road off Rancho San Carlos Road.

More than 50 percent of the property is being left as open space, with some lots being donated to the Big Sur Land Trust.

While Haber said he was unsure how much money the lots would sell for, he added that county permit fees alone for each parcel will be in excess of $80,000.

ENDING MORE than a decade of permit changes and amendments, county supervisors this week approved an application for the Quail Meadows subdivision in Carmel Valley.

Extremely frustrating

Dear Editor:

Congratulations on a very thoughtful, knowledgeable and perceptive editorial on the county's apparent inability to protect our environment.

It is extremely frustrating to realize that an individual can get by with wreaking such destruction. Thanks to the Pine Cone for taking a strong stand against such action.

Historical scrutiny

Dear Editor:

Amusing tales are one thing. Disrespect for persons directly connected to an event is another. I refer to Carmel Valley History Society's publications about the Madonna at White Oak Plaza.

The Madonna was brought to my mother's Carmel Valley art gallery by artist Djey Owens and placed on a dais for sale. Purchase did not materialize. My mother, Marion Wilson, suggested the statue be offered for sale to the community. A sale didn't result — but, a donor came forward. The generosity of an anonymous purchaser provided the extraordinary gift for everyone's enjoyment.

My family tended, gardened, and cared for the statue and site from inception through 1982. Starlight background for Christmas seasons was provided by my mother, which I continued. In the mid '70s, spotlight contribution was offered by Capt. and Mrs. Gibb Hatch (USN Ret.). An ecumenical service followed at Mrs. Hatch's request for world peace prayers — and in memory of my mother.

Regarding historical investigations: This property never bore names with references "White Oak" or "Oaks" until named "White Oak Inn" by my stepfather. There are numerous inaccuracies in current reports of the valley village area. Pursuit of history that does not reflect respect for tradition and dignity, and takes action (brought to my attention), to suppress property owner rights of use is counterproductive. Derogatory "crystal ball" conclusions drawn about property owners integrity, in the name of "environmentalism" or "historical" concern, are unworthy of a true environmentalist

Exciting talent

Dear Editor:

One of the wonders of amateur theater is the chance to discover a new and exciting talent. It doesn't happen very often, but when it does it's worth waiting for.

Such a minor miracle has happened in the current production of Show Boat at Carmel's Forest Theater. There's a girl named Angelina something-or-other — oh, here it is, Zweigle — whose voice and manner will lift you out of your seat. She plays Queenie, the cook and general cleaner-upper on Captain Andy's floating palace of drama; and when she's on stage, everybody's on stage. Her voice is electric. Her acting is convincing. And she's fun to look at.

She does about four songs, ranging from the moody "Misery" to the all-out "Hey, Feller"; and at both ends of the spectrum, she is a piece of work.

The show is about over, ends on Sunday, Sept. 3, after 18 performances. And watch for Queenie, Angelina. She's worth the trip!

Quantum leap for water

Dear Editor:

Our urgent need is more water in storage to prevent rationing next year and thereafter. Unfortunately, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District has put up roadblocks against simple storage projects such as silt removal to reclaim storage capacity at our old dams. For example, they report the price of silt removal at $20,000 per acre-foot of water, a price far too high when you look at actual practice.

At the suggestion of Tom May, a candidate for election to the peninsula water board this November, I reviewed a report on a recent dam de-silting project at Santa Barbara. By using modern pumps, the work was readily completed without problems on their toxic silt or their fishery. We would probably lease Santa Barbara's pumps to save time and money when we de-silt.

The Santa Barbara experience provides a benchmark for the cost of silt removal. Water from the reclaimed storage after silt removal costs about $3,200 per acre-foot. But, water from a new dam on the Carmel River would cost roughly $4,500, or more, per acre-foot when you account for all costs associated with the long wait for its completion, if that ever happens, including the substantial costs to assure mandatory river flows for fish. A state water expert has concluded that the dam could not be completed for 15 years and maybe 40 years. Another possibility is removing salt from seawater at about $3,000 per acre-foot.

Tom has proposed that the reclaimed storage at old dams be turned over several times each year during the rainy season to fill storage ponds scattered in and about the peninsula, a relatively rapid and simple move toward adequate water to protect what we already have in the way of homes and businesses from further rationing.

Tom makes another point. He wants to upgrade water conservation by strict compliance with the Monterey County Water Conservation Plan which has been almost entirely ignored by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, a potential violation of law.

That, in itself, is worthy of note.

BATES

"You think you OWN this town, don't you?"

People with assets

Dear Editor:

Having only lived here for 13 years it probably is not my place to comment on the letters Carmel Founders write to you for publication, but they all seem to be supporting the same position, so a comment or two from the other side may not be inappropriate.

It always seemed to me that people with assets who build nice homes, prosperous storekeepers who contribute to the economy, and landlords who maintain their properties up to code were a benefit to the community, but I find I have been wrong for a long time, according to your contributors.

Driving by a partially constructed new home one notices seven or eight $20,000 4-by-4's belonging to the carpenters, masons, painters, etc. indicating a fair payroll, but I guess they all take their paychecks home to Carmel Valley Village so no benefit accrues to Carmel.

The storekeepers all seem to thrive but they probably all live in Pebble Beach and take their profits home, no benefit there. The clerks in these stores, probably well paid, must commute from somewhere no help from this source.

And the landlords, those nasty fellows, probably all bank in Chicago or New York so their money is of no value to us. Having been a realtor and landlord it's hard for me to generate much sympathy for the little storekeepers who can't pay the rent increase. How many times in the past have I pleaded with these types to buy when the opportunity arose but to be rebuffed with the reply they don't want to fix the leaky roof or faucet.

Speaking of people with assets I always thank that wonderful family who maintain that great expanse of land south of town without any type of unsightly development on it. It is a thing of joy to me every time I drive down Rio Vista Drive and gaze upon it.

Carmel region's receipt of Measure A funds in question

By NANCY HILLS

THE DEBATE goes on whether or not the no charge ambulance service offered in the Carmel region will eliminate this area from receiving Measure A funds for paramedics.

The Emergency Medical Service Executive Council met Monday night at the Monterey County Health Department Community Room and voted to approve money for South County's paramedic and ambulance plan but decided it needed more time to analyze a proposal from the Carmel region.

The executive council will recommend to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors how to divide $492,000 of Measure A funds for paramedic services in four county regions.

Voters approved Measure A last November. The measure permits the county to institute a maximum of $12 per housing unit charge for emergency medical services countywide. The $492,000 is based on a $9.10 per housing unit charge which raised a total of $1,082,000.

About $500,000 of $1 million is already designated for countywide communication upgrade, equipment, training and other centralized services.

South County region was under a deadline to provide $338,000 for a private paramedic contractor to serve its 1,800 square miles which incorporates King City, Soledad, Gonzales and the surrounding area. The funds would go to supplement monies gathered through fees charged per emergency ambulance ride.

The Carmel region proposal maintains its current no-charge emergency ambulance service and asks for $330,000 for three 24-hour paramedic positions in the region. The paramedics would be located in the city of Carmel, Carmel Valley and Big Sur. Carmel ambulance service incorporates the Carmel

Quail Meadows project receives unanimous approval

The county attached 104 conditions to the Quail Meadows permit. One of those stipulations is a $700,000 electronically sensed irrigation system to water the resort's golf course.

Using the sensors to determine which areas need watering will save about 60 acre feet of water annually, Haber said.

"We'll bank on you making us prove it," Haber told the board, referring to the stipulation that building cannot begin until water savings are realized. "We're going to create more water (for the county) by using less."

He added that the subdivision will need only about 30 acre feet of water annually. The additional 30 acre feet will be given to the California-American Water Co. to be used as a drought reserve.

Another condition attached to the application calls for Quail Meadows to perform road improvements at the intersection of Rancho San Carlos and Carmel Valley roads.

Twenty thousand dollars from each lot sold will be earmarked toward road improvements.

THOSE ATTENDING this week's hearing agreed that Quail Meadows should serve as a prototype for future building projects.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman lauded the project for following all of the policies contained in the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

"That's a mouthful when you consider all the policies in the plan," she said, adding that Quail Meadows will not be visible from Carmel Valley Road.

A normally terse 1st District Supervisor Marc Del Piero also agreed that the project deserved accolades.

"I doubt seriously if there will be any more projects before the supervisors that have the sensitivity to the environment that Quail Meadows does," he said.

Haber said it will more than likely take at least 20 years for the property to be built out, and three years for the first lot to be developed.

"I'll be 80 before the first house is finished," he said.

Quail Meadows, with its high marks for environmental concerns, appears to culminate a successful career for Haber.

Asked if he would tackle another development, he answered: "I don't want to do it anymore; this is enough."

Geologist Kingsley hopes to remedy water crisis

By NANCY HILLS

GEOLOGIST JOHN Kingsley is looking to short-term water supply projects to help alleviate the peninsula's continuing water crisis.

Kingsley is a candidate for one of the two Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board seats up for grabs in this November's election.

Kingsley explained that he has done a little geologic advising for the water district in the past, primarily as a volunteer for the proposed dam environmental impact report/environmental impact statement.

He has also, he said, drilled and developed private wells in the area from a "variety of aquifers" in the district.

He received a masters of arts degree in 1962 from the University of California in Los Angeles in geology and began his studies of Monterey County in 1968.

He is running, he said, for "a whole bunch of reasons," and this is not the first time he thought of putting his name of the ballot for the district.

"I'm enthusiastic about getting some interim water," he said. "As a geologist, I would be helpful with the technical side of the decision-making process."

"I am very dissatisfied with some of the decisions of this board," he added, stating that the present water district chairman Nick Lombardo stated that he did not want technical people on the committees.

Kingsley believes there is at least an additional 2,500 acre feet of water available through new wells in areas both inside and outside the district. The district should look beyond its two primary water sources, the Carmel River and Seaside aquifers.

"We need to look at the Tularcitos fault, along Highway 68 corridor (to Salinas) and the Aguajito area in Monterey," he said.

Kingsley said he is favor of a dam, but it remains "unanswerable" when that dam will come on line. In the meantime, it is important to augment the current water supply.

Kingsley said he did not sign the petition for a moratorium on water connections because "I figured that (the petition) was a political move and that wasn't really going to save us any water or that much anyway." He added, however, that "we have to slow (water) going out and increase it coming in."

Kingsley said he believed director Dick Heuer's plan to limit water connections to lots of record, projects in progress, public projects and low and moderate-income housing, would work. That, unlike a moratorium, is not a total stoppage of building, but it slows it down.

"We have to limit some place," he said.

One of the "easiest ways" to accomplish a

"I'm enthusiastic about getting some interim water. As a geologist, I would be helpful with the technical side of the decision making process."

— John Kingsley

portion of that task, he said, is to retrofit peninsula buildings with low-flow fixtures.

Kingsley added that politics has taken up too much of the water board's time and efforts. The current board emphasizes a "growth at any cost" attitude, while the other side pushes the opposite stance.

"One of the things that really has to happen is that the board has to start listening to the public and encouraging them to speak," he said.

The fact that the board did not try to work some compromise when it received the more than 10,000 signatures on a petition asking for a moratorium.

"If it had been myself on the board, I would at least tried to figure something out," Kingsley said.

His technical background and approach to water problems can serve to take some of the decisions out of the political arena, he believes, and the numerous technical reports require someone to interpret them with some expertise.

"Nobody on the board now has experience in water or geology," he said.

GEOLOGIST JOHN Kingsley filed as a Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board candidate and if elected plans to investigate supplemental water sources that can be quickly tapped. (Mac McDonald photo.)

Candidate Noto bullish on dam construction

By NANCY HILLS

RETIRED DENTIST Joseph Noto is a water board candidate who definitely wants a dam — a very big dam. He also wants to get rid of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

Noto, a Carmel Valley resident, believes that the peninsula should "dust off" the Army Corps of Engineers' plans to build a 154,000-acre-foot dam (the one proposed by the district is 29,000 acre feet maximum), that would incorporate flood control.

"I feel very strongly that we have to build a big dam. With that dam, it is anticipated we would have 30,000 acre feet for human consumption, 70,000 acre feet for the Carmel River riparian environment and (state) Fish and Game (Department)."

Where the dam would be located is for "(the Army Corps of Engineers and Department of Fish and Game) to figure out."

"I am confident it is resolvable," he said, about the larger flood control dam.

The Army engineers' dam proposed in the 1970s was to be located at the San Clemente dam site, the same site the Fish and Game officials are protesting over the water district's proposed 29,000 acre foot dam.

"The other thing is that it would have a flood control impact, which is something that no one else is even looking into," he added.

"I see no reason that it would not materialize in five to 10 years," Noto said for a timeline. "Somewhere along the line the needs of so many people has to come into play because so many lives are involved."

Noto advocates turning the project over to the Monterey County Flood Control District because they got the Nacimiento and San Antonio dams on line. (Note: The Nacimiento dam was completed in 1957 and San Antonio dam in 1964, both before the environmental laws that the Carmel River dams must comply with were approved.)

Noto believed that financing of what was estimated to be 12 years ago as $80 to $92 million per dam minimum. Noto believes the financing could come from a compilation of monies from the $30 to $50 million California-American Water Co. proposes to build the Canada Reservoir, $15 million the Pebble Beach Co. plans to use to build the water reclamation plant and another $3 to $5 million from hotels planned in Sand City.

"Let's say it costs $125 million. If we do it, it would be better to double the $50 for the proposed water district San Clemente dam" and get more, he said, though he admitted he has not done any financial research on the project.

"I also don't want any moratorium except on hotels and commercial projects until we get a dam," he said.

That means any commercial project, but he would like to continue building homes and apartments. Residential construction is enough to keep the construction industry working, he added.

Noto deeded a well to California-American Water Co. during the 1976-77 drought.

"I want people to know that my well was a lifesaver according to Cal-Am officials. It would have been more severe than it was," he said.

Noto believes the district should be dissolved because it has spent $10 million and the next year 20 years, at that rate, it will spend $20 million. The responsibility should go to the flood control district, he said, which is already in place.

"We have only ourselves to blame because we voted in people who took the district off the track of what its purpose was — to build a dam," Noto said. "If people don't vote, they have no one else to blame."

Carmel rug merchant pays final visit to Afghanistan

By DAVID LELAND

PETERSON CONWAY VII's most recent trip into Soviet-occupied Afghanistan, delivering medicine with Doctors Without Borders, was just a little bit too dangerous for the veteran Carmel Persian rug merchant.

Sleeping in caves created by the rocky, lunar-type terrain during daylight hours, the group of Good Samaritans found themselves travelling by moonlight to elude detection, often to the sound of bullets whizzing close by.

"It was so dangerous I won't go back in," says Conway, of the constant surveillance by Soviet "advisors." "I won't do that again."

When Conway makes his 81st stop at the Middle East this October, he will stop at the Pakistan border — it is too painful, as well as dangerous, to see his beloved Afghanistan torn apart by war.

"I love Afghanistan and I love the Afghanistan people," says Conway, who first visited the country shortly after graduating from Carmel High School in 1964. "They are the most sovereign people on the face of the earth."

Known for centuries for its finely woven rugs, Afghanistan no longer produces them, and suffers from the lowest gross national product and highest infant mortality rate in the world.

"The most rudimentary survival is what's at hand for the Afghanistan people," says Conway, who owns and operates three Conway of Asia stores, two on Dolores Street in downtown Carmel and one at Del Monte Center in Monterey.

During his last trip Conway says he walked through many thriving villages on his way into the country — six weeks later, on his way out, the same villages were totally destroyed.

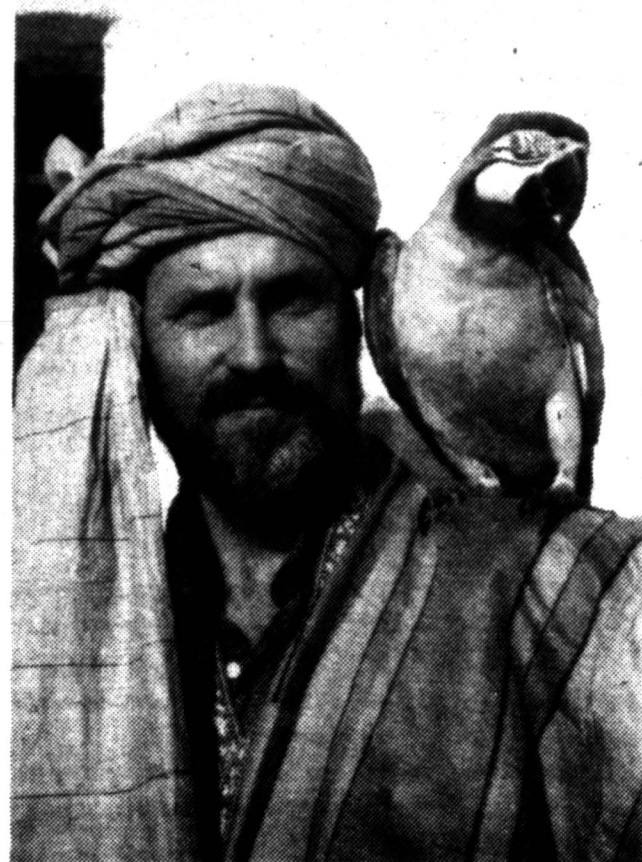

Don't for a minute, however, get the idea that Conway is squeamish — it's taken a lot to convince him that the country is not a good place to be at this time.

Take, for example, the time 1½ years ago when a Afghanistan rebel tossed a soiled handkerchief at the feet of Conway and told him to deliver the package to former President Reagan.

The rebel said that his country needed bullets and missiles, not medical supplies.

The handkerchief contained both ears of a Soviet officer, replete with I.D. serial numbers tattooed on the backsides, as is custom with Soviet soldiers, who do not wear dogtags.

"I kept the story alive, but I wouldn't put that (handkerchief) in my carry-on luggage," says Conway, of the fate of the grisly aural fixtures.

AFTER TRAVELLING to Afghanistan 80 times since 1964, Peterson Conway, who owns two Conway of Asia stores on Dolores Street, says he feels quite at home in the culture. But when he delivers medical supplies this October, he will stop his trip at the border of Pakistan, due to dangerous conditions in the neighboring country.

From 1970-74, Conway worked as an interpreter for the United Nations, translating simultaneously in English, French and Persian.

Shortly thereafter he set up shop in Carmel.

Conway has never lost contact with the Afghanistan culture, and 16 years ago adopted Rahim, who works in his store restoring carpets.

Last time he travelled to Afghanistan, Conway's two children, Adam, 14, and Peterson VIII, 16, stayed in a refugee camp in Pakistan where they taught English.

In addition to his voyages to the Middle East, Conway also tours the United States, educating physicians to the plight of Afghanistan.

Thus far he has helped raise more than $1.5 million and garnered 2.5 tons of medical

Enrollment continues to drop in Carmel Unified School District

By DAVID LELAND

THE CARMEL Unified School District's enrollment figures this year continue to reflect an alarming downward trend which began some 13 years ago.

In 1976, CUSD attendance peaked with 3,145 students — now enrollment stands at 2,386, and dropping.

Granted, the decrease in students is not as dramatic as doomsayers predicted in 1981, when CUSD officials said numbers would fall below 1,700 students by this year. But the number is significant enough to raise questions concerning the future of the district.

"It becomes more difficult to offer a comprehensive curriculum," said Vance Baldwin, CUSD assistant superintendent. "It creates a lot of problems trying to staff appropriately."

Witness Carmel High School, where enrollment has fallen from 811 to 668 students, or a 20-percent drop since the 1985-86 school year.

Some classes at the high school, such as advanced languages and math, are currently in danger of being discontinued. Attendance figures in those classes have fallen from about 30 to 16 students.

One positive side, according to Principal Marie Ishida, is that class ratios have also dipped. Instead of one teacher for 29 students, classes now have 22 students per teacher.

In order to ensure teachers at the high school a full load of classes, three teachers are now dividing their time between the high school and Carmel Middle School, where attendance has remained steady.

State officials predict that most school growth will take place in elementary and middle schools up until 1995, reflecting the echo of the baby boom years of a generation ago.

This theory does not stand true in Carmel, however, where kindergarten attendance has dropped from 168 children in 1985-86 to 150 this year.

Statewide, schools will gain 127,000 students this fall for an annual increase of 2.8 percent, according to the state Department of Finance.

If kindergarten students represent young parents, as is often the case, it becomes glaringly apparent that high real estate values in the area are driving out moderate-income couples.

Single-family homes hover around the $300,000 mark in both Carmel and Carmel Valley.

Some observers also claim that young couples who can afford to buy homes here send their children to private schools, whose enrollments have increased, drawing students away from public schools.

"I would say that is part of the reason for the continuing decline in enrollment," said Baldwin.

BALDWIN ADDED that the CUSD receives basic aid from the state and that funding is not reliant on class size.

Other smaller sources of funding, such as money from the state lottery, are reduced somewhat because of dwindling class size, he said.

Thus far, CUSD officials have been able to adapt to the reduced number of students.

"We've made some minor adjustments and, at the same time, are making an effort to be creative and allow for the continuation of a comprehensive program," Baldwin said.

Several years ago the district closed both Carmel Woods and Carmelo schools because of sagging enrollment.

Baldwin said further closing would be tougher on students. If Tulare School in Carmel Valley were closed it would force students to commute several miles to Carmel River School.

Baldwin said that for the time being, however, the district is taking a wait-and-see attitude regarding any dramatic decisions.

Gifts to Harrison Library include videos, microfilmed newspapers

By NANCY HILLS

THE HARRISON Memorial Library got more than a new coat of paint recently.

The library received three substantial gifts this month, totaling $13,789.

The gifts include:

- $3,000 from Carmel resident Janet Keene to begin a videotape collection. The library has books on tape but has no videos. The money will be used to buy documentary, how-to and travel tapes.

- $780 from the First Church of Christ, Scientist of Carmel for the annual subscription to the Christian Science Monitor and to transfer the paper onto microfilm.

- $10,000 for new books from the Friends of Harrison Memorial Library. The money comes from the proceeds of its annual book sale and membership donations.

A video collection was the inspiration of Keene.

"Other people are giving books," Keene explained. "I wanted to give something more in keeping with the times."

She said she had used videos from other libraries and would like to see Carmel offer the same service.

"I felt there was a real need in Carmel for the videos. I had been taking out the audio tapes but there were no videos," Keene said.

She is hoping that her gift, which she refers to as a "seed grant," will encourage others to bring in tapes they no longer use, including feature films.

"We decided to start out with documentaries, how-to and travel but I hope people will bring in movies, particularly the classics," she added.

Keene is interested in the video collection offering selections for all ages and suggested that people who own videos their children have outgrown donate them to the library.

"I really want to emphasize that the whole community can be involved in this project," she said.

Keene said she is an avid library patron and in fact, has "never wanted to buy a house that wasn't in walking distance of the library."

The videos will be placed along with the audio tapes in their new location next to the fireplace in the main reading room.

The gift from the Christian Science Church, explained library director Margaret Pelikan, would allow the library to keep its subscription to the Christian Science Monitor and continue recording the paper on microfilm.

"Most libraries have one national paper they keep on microfilm. We choose the Christian Science Monitor because the Monterey Library has The New York Times," she said.

Recent cuts in county funding are forcing the library to choose what it will eliminate to meet expenses. Microfilming a national newspaper was one of the first cuts it was going to have to make.

The loss of the county money is also the reason why the gift from Friends of Harrison Memorial Library will go to books rather than other projects. The approximately 300-member organization conducts an annual book sale in August and collects membership fees to raise funds for the library.

The $10,000 collected this year "is a generous gift," Pelikan said.

The library board is planning to begin a fundraising drive to establish an endowment fund to purchase books.

Former Miss Harley Davidson takes sentimental journey

By MAC McDONALD

WHEN CARMEL resident Regina Smith attended her reunion last weekend in Brenckenridge, Colo., she was in select company.

There weren't, however, any cheerful but overbearing relatives pinching cheeks or ram-bunctious kids running about knocking things over. No, the order of the day was more like perfume, leather and huge motorcycles.

Smith attended the first Miss Harley Davidson Reunion in the Rocky Mountain resort town famous more for its skiing than its biker rallies. The 28-year-old Smith, a model, aspiring comedian and manager of the Roxy clothing store in downtown Carmel, is a former Miss Harley Davidson.

In fact, she was the very first Miss Harley Davidson, back in 1983.

"I was the first reigning Miss Harley Davidson; then they asked me to do it again," she says, referring to her two-year reign from 1983-85 as spokesperson for the renowned American motorcycle company. "They did it because they wanted to upgrade their image to the All-American girl."

Smith chuckles at that thought, because while she has the blonde, All-American girl good looks, she calls herself "eccentric" and "not normal" because of her wild sense of humor and almost-maniac personality.

"A girlfriend once told me, 'For a pretty girl you're the weirdest person I know...but you get away with it,'" she says laughing.

That probably also accounts for the fact that while she has had a somewhat steady career as a model, she now wants her career to take a decidedly comic bent — she wants to be a professional stand-up comedian.

"I feel I have a gift and I want to share it with people," says the fast-talking, not-in-the-least-bit-reticent Smith. "I really want to take a chance on this because I feel that's where I belong. I love to laugh."

While she says she had a "conservative upbringing" growing up in Virginia and later Ohio, she has a background that may have lent itself to her current direction. Her sister is a comedian and a model and other family members have certain comic attributes.

"Our family is basically funny," she says bemusedly. "My mother is like Lucille Ball."

She even has an image of herself performing on stage. "I see myself as very vivacious and outgoing; a kind of an eccentric woman on stage; a blend of Gilda Radner, Lucille Ball and Goldie Hawn," she says in her rapid-fire manner. "Laughter is the best thing you can do in life; your attitude is so much healthier. I'd like to be a positive comedian not a put-down comedian, someone who can uplift people, inspire people."

its riders. In addition to appearance fees she even received a brand-new $10,000 motorcycle in the colors of her sorority with her likeness painted on the gas tank.

She was also impressed by the fervor of adherents of Harley Davidson, which has recently enjoyed a resurgence in popularity.

"I couldn't believe how people were so dedicated and loyal to Harley Davidson," she says about her encounters with a variety of motorcycle enthusiasts. "But it's more than just nostalgia. It's something all Americans should be proud of. It's a legend."

It also planted the seed for her current endeavors.

"It was a great opportunity for a young girl in college. It also gave me a great insight into all the different people there are in this world and that you can't judge people by what they're wearing," she says. "It also inspired me and showed me I have to be with the public. I kept coming back to my comedy and the fact that I have to be an entertainer and be on stage."

After getting an AA degree from Ashland, she moved to the Monterey Peninsula in 1983, shortly after meeting a peninsula resident. She was a semi-finalist in a couple of other contests — the English Leather Calendar Girl Contest and as a member of the new Charlie's Angels television series — but the experiences, although exciting, left her unfulfilled.

"After that I told myself I wouldn't enter any more contests." After her reign was up in 1985, "There was an empty feeling, like 'What will I do next? How will I top this one?'"

Now she has her mind set on a definite goal — making people laugh, which she does quite often at work and in social situations, but which she hopes to take to a more public forum.

"If you have a unique purpose in this life, then the most important thing is to find out what that purpose is and follow it through 100 percent," says Smith, who also sings and

HER INSPIRATION came rather early. As a student at Ashland College in Ohio she was voted the fraternity-sorority "Greek Goddess," a position she likened to homecoming queen. A fraternity brother told her about a search for a model/spokesperson for Harley Davidson motorcycles, which, after years of bad public image and declining sales to Japanese imports, was looking to clean up its tarnished image.

"I was chosen as one of the six finalists and flown to Daytona for Bike Week," she said about the national contest. "I told them I was the person they needed for the job and they went for it."

That led to two years of travelling, personal appearances, autograph-signings, motorcycle races and rallies and yes, the ubiquitous supermarket openings, all the while touting the attributes of the motorcycle and

In a crowded Water Board race . . .

Go for A Record of Leadership And Commitment to Residents

Dale Hekhuis

Dale Hekhuis is not a newcomer to water management. His attendance at Water Board meetings, public hearings and workshops during the past four years has made him knowledgeable about water issues. He has acted to protect the water rights of residents and has responded to their concerns.

Dale Hekhuis led the Residents Water Committee petition drive for limits on new water connections in order to protect our current water supply for existing residents and businesses.

Dale Hekhuis supports constructing a new dam/reservoir as a long-term water solution. The proposed Canada Reservoir has practical and environmental advantages that deserve serious evaluation.

Dale Hekhuis has argued for the development of new short-term water supplies. Water reclamation for golf courses is promising; low-flush toilets have potential for wider usage; desalination requires an economic feasibility appraisal.

Dale Hekhuis believes that if we must have water rationing, the system should be fair to everyone.

Dale Hekhuis remains a vigorous opponent of the "Water Rights Proposal" to grant Water Board Chairman Lombardo an entitlement to 935 acre-feet of water for his Rancho Canada golf courses.

Dale Hekhuis opposes the overpumping of wells in Carmel Valley and Seaside. Overpumping is steadily degrading the watershed, and county health officer Walter Wong sees the potential risk of drinking water pollution. Furthermore, drilling additional wells is generally a risky option.

Dale Hekhuis understands residents and business. He is a founding director of Carmel Residents Association and former Chair of Residents Water Committee. A retired business executive, he currently runs a small international business.

Dale Hekhuis is a doer, not just a talker. He is committed to a no-nonsense approach to water management; he wants a water board that is responsive to the community, environmentally sound---and free from the domination of special interests. We want the same thing. Join us in supporting Dale Hekhuis for our Water Board.

BUSINESS BEAT

By David Leland

A taxing situation

THE DEPARTMENT of Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is making its presence known in Carmel, to the tune of $250 a year to several restaurants.

It seems that a federal law that has been on the books for more than 40 years is just beginning to come of age. That would be a "special occupational" tax imposed by the U.S. Government on retail businesses selling alcoholic beverages.

In Carmel, eateries notified by the bureau include Swedish Restaurant, Le Bistro, Chez Felix, Ruby's Kitchen, Katy's and Katy's Place.

"We'll give up selling beer and wine at the end of the year," says Ray Friday, owner of the Swedish Restaurant on Dolores Street. "Everybody's cutting back (on alcohol) anyway; it's developed a bad image."

Thomas Crone, ATB area supervisor, blames the U.S. Congress, which last year increased the occupational tax from $54 annually to $250 a year.

"It doesn't make us happy," he says of the program, which promises to bring the government $125 million nationwide in such taxes. "This is a nuisance program; I feel for the people who must pay these taxes."

Statewide, Crone says, as many as 40,000 business have been notified to pay up or suffer from a worst-case scenario of a lien.

And while Crone says many people plead ignorance, that is no excuse for not paying the tax.

"Most people realize that you have to have a state license," he says. "They just don't know you have to have a federal permit."

Indeed.

On a lighter note... Last week saw the grand opening of Mail Mart, a one-stop postal and business concern on Dolores Street across from the U.S. Post Office.

Mail Mart owners Alan Kaplan, Ted Leidig, Michael Albov and Elaine Arias believe that such businesses are the wave of the future, and are opening a sister store in Salinas.

Mail Mart offers stamps, UPS and Airborne Express, private box rentals, communications, notary, lamination, money orders, custom gift wrapping and the like.

The store also boasts a do-it-yourself-copy machine, a high-speed copier and has plans to lease a $45,000 color copier, according to Leidig.

Happy Birthday... Barbara Podoloff, owner of Copies-by-the-Sea, just a few doors down from Mail Mart, recently celebrated five successful years at that location. Congratulations.

You heard it first... As reported in Business Beat earlier this summer, Monterey hotel owner Ted Richter has purchased the Carmel Mission Inn from Chatmar Inc.

In the same deal Richter, who also owns the Hotel Pacific and Spindrift Inn, also picked up the Monterey Beach Hotel. No price was given for the transaction.

The 165-room Carmel Mission Inn was opened in 1967 by the late Hugh Chatham under a franchise agreement with the Holiday Inn.

Benevolent gesture... Hayward Lumber Co., along with the Weyerhaeuser Corp., recently donated enough material to cover the Forest Theater stage and enough plywood to build a showboat, for the musical of the same name.

That comes out to about $1,000 in materials.

The Forest Theater responded by naming Aug. 24 Hayward Lumber night, with about 90 Hayward Lumber employees taking in the festivities.

Speaking of Hayward Lumber Co.... The company has announced the appointment of Phil Larios as vice president and chief operations officer and Vito Mule' as vice president and chief financial officer, according to Homer Hayward, president.

Larios has been with Hayward Lumber since 1977 and formerly served as branch manager in Hollister.

Mule' is being promoted from the position of controller, which he has held since 1985.

Larios and Mule' will be responsible for the day-to-day operation of the Hayward Lumber Co.'s six branches as well as all the other company operating units. They will also be developing plans for the long-term growth of the company.

Banking news... First National Bank of Monterey County, with total assets of more than $175 million, is proceeding with plans to establish an office at the mouth of the valley, according to Lewis Fenton, board chairman.

The branch application has been approved by the Comptroller of Currency, and the bank is actively seeking a site in which to serve the area.

"We have developed a widespread customer base in the Carmel/Carmel Valley business areas in the past five years, and we are looking forward to the opportunity to better serve their banking needs," Fenton said.

The proposed new banking office will be a full-service bank, serving the local business community as well as residents of Carmel and Carmel Valley. An opening date is anticipated in the next 12 to 18 months.

A clean sweep... Decks Unlimited, which specializes in high pressure cleaning of decks and patios, is owned by Carmel Valley residents Nelson and Jenn Foreman and Jerry and Kelli Lee.

The technology Decks Unlimited cleans structural surfaces with water jets pressurized at 3,000 pounds per square inch.

The small company is currently offering promotional discounts and a 10 percent senior citizen saving. Decks Unlimited offers a money-back guarantee. Phone 626-8073 for a free estimate.

New downtown business... Whittakers, Carmel's new kitchen gourmet/garden patio shop, owned by Peter Whittaker, offers an ideal location for locals. Its upper room, dedicated to providing both unique and useful items for around the kitchen, sits right across the street from the library. The downstairs garden room carries live plants, patio furniture and garden accessories.

By Jim Johnson

"We'll take two"

AT THE TIME it seemed like a responsible proposal. If Scott maintained a 3.5 G.P.A. through his milestone 16th birthday, I would match his down payment contribution for a car. Also, I agreed to guarantee a modest auto loan, $1,000 apiece and $100 per month seemed to be in line for a good late model used Honda or V.W.

I did not give our agreement further thought until Scott posed the question: "Dad, if I pay payments of $200 per month, how much money can I borrow?" "What did you have in mind son?" I asked. "Well, at my deposit rate I should have $5,000 saved and with your $5,000 plus $200 per month, I was wondering if I could afford package B instead of package A on a new Mazda Miata. In addition to power steering, alloy wheels, a leather wrapped steering wheel and an AM/FM stereo with cassette player, Package B includes power windows, cruise control and headrest speakers."

I had always encouraged Scott to set his sights high. A well maintained used BMW represented a good investment, and a late model Acura Integra, excellent safety marks. When Scott surprised me with a Japanese copy of Colin Chapman's Lotus Elan, my unspoken response was no!

Let the Japanese and Germans pit their vast automotive resources against one another. Trying to "snuff" Lotus was to threaten our ally. Lotuses were manufactured in a quaint old brick garage on a foggy Millbrook alley.

Regaining my composure, I suggested that he consider buying American. "Wouldn't restoring a Camaro or Mustang be a fun project for us?"

"Why dad, you drive a Mercedes and mom's Volvo wagon is Swedish. Besides, you are too busy playing golf on the weekends to wash your own car."

"How did you save $5,000, Scott?" "I had a garage sale, dad. While you were away on business, mom said it was all right to sell out old cloths and appliances instead of donating them for the rummage sale. My birthday and Christmas presents were not exactly what I wanted, so I returned them. I have also been doubling up on my bussing shifts at the manor. Can we test drive cars tomorrow?" It seemed like only yesterday "Scooter" was asking for his first new bike.

A Miata was about to lever my second childhood. On the way to explore our automobile choices, I suggested safety as our priority. "Good thinking, dad, an air bag is standard on the Miata." Yes, affixed at the bottom of the windshield in obvious, bold lettering, is the word airbag.

The sales lady was very accommodating. She just happened to have the dealer's demonstrator available for a road test. Of course, it was not for sale. The Miata's interior was all too familiar. I looked at the gauges and they had the same black facing. Only the white VDO trade marks were missing. Appearance of the black vinyl upholstery and carpet matting were typical. I reached for the gear shift lever and it was right where I had left it in my Triumph TR 6 twenty years ago. It even blocked the 8-track tape deck opening. Only the 8-track had been replaced with a cassette player. The rag top's (it is canvas) latches are still manual but open and close without dislocating thumbs. The Miata's interior is reminiscent of a classic British sports car.

Mazda experimented with 200 different exhaust sounds to recreate the perfect British exhaust tune of the 1950s and '60s. A classic Solex carburetor "cough" precedes the acoustical effect of Miata's smooth acceleration. The short, direct shift linkage throw is perfect. So are Miata's five forward gear ratios.

MAZDA MX-5 MIATA

I expected to find a surplus Mazda front-wheel drive unit with adequate underpinnings camouflaged beneath the nostalgic computer-aided exterior design. What I discovered was four-wheel independent double wishbone suspension supporting a dual overhead camshaft 16-valve, fuel-injected, 1.6 liter, 116 horsepower, four-cylinder engine. The Miata is the best performing light, front-engine, rear-drive sports car I have ever driven. It feels balanced, safe, solid, and fast.

I was anxious as I waited for Scott to finish his road test. He would have plenty of time to drive his own Miata. At the sales desk I asked for the best deal and was quoted a price substantially above the $13,800 base price.

"Wasn't that more than the sticker price?" I questioned. "Have you ever paid the sticker price for a car, Mr. Reid?" "Well, no — what if I buy two?" "If your color choices are open we might have them for you by the end of next month." "Red, white, and blue." Of course.

"We'll take two."

Hodges property to be scrutinized for purchase by city pieces of unimproved land that can be considered for public acquisition to meet either current or future needs rarely occur. The recent rise in property values makes it imperative that a public agency seek out and pursue opportunities as they are presented."

This opportunity arose, Grace explained, during negotiations for a storm drainage easement.

"This city council has the opportunity, should this acquisition be successful, to assist a future council in addressing the needs of the community that it may find when it is seated," she continued.

If the council decides it is interested in purchasing the property, the city would have to locate funds for the purchase. Grace stated that the means of payment and "funding source" would be determined by the purchase price.

"The price will be negotiated between the city and the owners if the city council wishes to go forward with this proposal. A final price will determine whether the city utilizes reserves, certificates of participation, grant funds or a combination of all these to secure the property," her statement reads.

The city is still paying approximately $400,000 annually for the former Handley (now Torres Street) property, which has 10 years of payments left unless the debt is retired early. The city paid $2.5 million for the slightly more than an acre site, formerly the Carmel location of the Hayward Lumber Co.

The city is also paying off the Crocker Bank building, now the Harrison Memorial Library Park Branch, located at the corner of Mission Street and Sixth Avenue. That represents $245,000 decreasing to $215,000 in annual payments until 1992. The city bought the building in 1987 for $1.75 million.

Councilman Ken White called the Hodges property an interesting proposition, if the city can find a way to pay for it.

"We are heavily into the payment of Park Branch and the Torres Street property," he said. "I would like to make sure we can pay for it. However, this is an opportunity to get a piece of property for recreational use someday or, keeping the residents around there in mind, satellite parking. The neighborhood would have to be contacted and the county."

Grace also expressed concern for the neighbors of the Hodges property.

"To the people who live in the area of the Hodges property, I'd like to say that the city is aware of your concerns about the ultimate uses of this property, whether developed by a private party or by a public entity.

"If the city does initiate negotiations and is successful in acquiring the land, residents of the area will be a party to the planning process. You may be assured that your concerns about this property and access to it will carry significant weight in the development of a final plan by the city," she wrote.

In other business, the council will consider:

- Awarding the bid to begin work to construct the Torres Street property parking lot and mini-park. The property is located between Junipero Avenue and Torres Street and Third and Fourth avenues. The plans call for turning one lane of Torres Street into a mini-park which will change the street into a one-way access between Third and Fourth avenues.

- An appeal by property owners Richard and Jane Peterson of a planning commission denial to reconfigure their property lines to allow two buildable lots from one buildable site. The Petersons own one full lot flanked by two half lots on Camino Real Street between Seventh and Eighth avenues.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Braving cloudy skies

"LET'S DO this again soon!" exclaimed many of the 60 participants who braved wind and cloudy skies to enjoy the Carmel Residents Association (CRA) flower/ocean walk and picnic. In upper left photo, marine biologist Scott Hennessy speaks of the bay to David Dilworth, David Epel (another biologist in assistance), Kay Thomas and Steve Brooks. At right, Scott Hennessy (center), explains the mysteries of Carmel Bay to

Vance Fraiser, Lois Epel, Peggy Purchase and others. The group was first guided by Greg D'Ambrosio, Carmel's director of administrative services, and Patty Kreiberg of Sunset Coast Nursery, who discussed the beach walkway. Hennessy and Epel addressed issues concerning the bay. The event was climaxed by a potluck picnic. (Clayton Anderson photos).

Carmel region ambulance funding hangs in Measure A balance

Highlands and Rio Road areas.

Currently, the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross provides the ambulances free of charge to the Carmel, Carmel Valley and Big Sur emergency agencies. Mid-Carmel Valley Fire Department owns its ambulance. All the Carmel region emergency ambulances are supported through donations and community fundraising events.

The fire departments of Carmel, Carmel Valley and Mid-Carmel Valley and Big Sur Rescue Squad provide the personnel to operate the vehicles. The areas have no paramedics but use emergency medical technicians (EMTs) who have much less training than the paramedic. Most of the EMTs are volunteers.

The ambulance and EMT service is extended without a charge to the victim.

It is that "no-charge" ambulance service that has the other three regions that share the Measure A funds questioning whether Carmel region should receive any money if its service is free.

All other regions charge a fee for the emergency medical service to offset the cost. The Monterey and Salinas regions are currently not asking for any Measure A funds for their programs. They primarily use private contractors to provide paramedics and emergency ambulances and it is paid for through charging the users of the service.

A move by representatives from South County at the executive council meeting to prohibit no-charge emergency medical services from receiving Measure A funds was dropped at the meeting until the further study was conducted.

The Red Cross and emergency agencies in the Carmel region maintain that their emergency medical services are not "free" but simply no charge to the victim. The charge is spread out amongst the community.

Additionally, a consultants' report states that a private provider would need a $227,000 to $350,000 subsidy from the county to supplement the cost of providing service to such sparsely populated and distant areas as Big Sur, Cachagua and portions of Carmel Valley.

The subsidy would be in addition to charging ambulance users throughout the Carmel region.

The consultant's report was roundly criticized by representatives of the Carmel region for what they said were inaccuracies in its descriptions of the service boundaries, call volume and running time.

"There are a variety of ways to have ambulance service. We choose to collect the funds from the community rather than charge the victim. We might consider other ways of funding. It is a philosophical difference," said Pat Dowd of the Carmel Valley Fire Department, representing the Carmel region on the executive council. "We provide the salaried employees and volunteers. All we are asking for are paramedics and some advanced life system equipment."

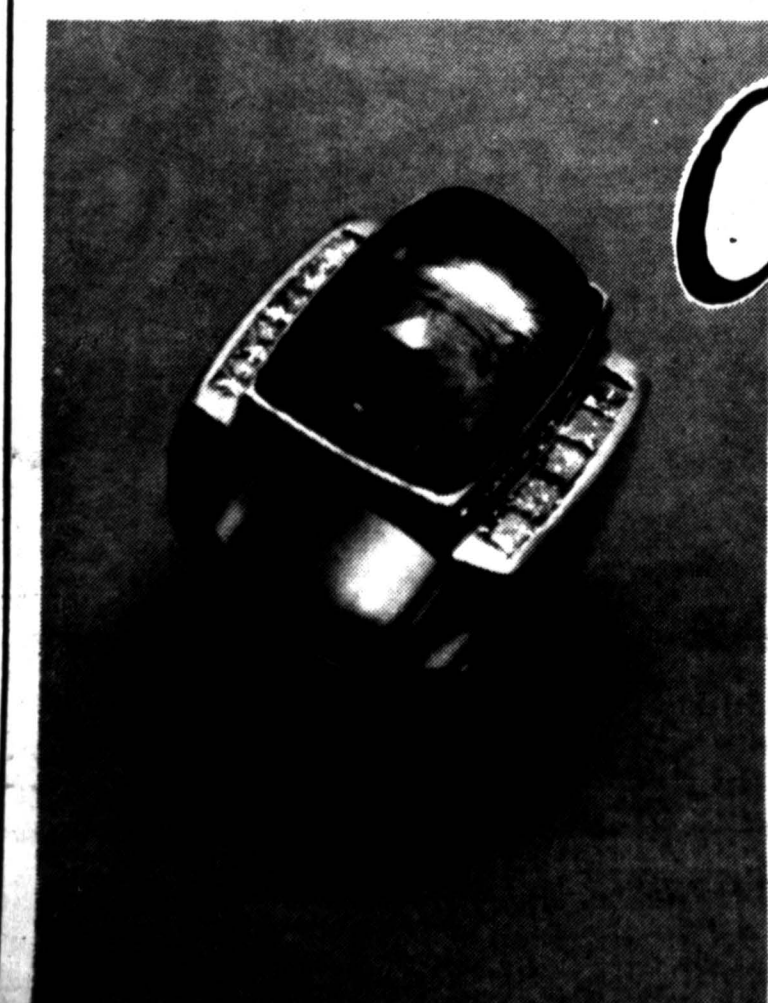

The problem, Dowd continued, is "we are finding out that Measure A funds aren't enough to pay for paramedics" the way the voters believed they would be provided.

Gene Erner of the Mid-Valley Fire Department board, also representing the Carmel region, said the program tried to address the differences in the regions without imposing the will of one region on the other or one master plan on anyone."

South County region representative Harold Wolgamott, a volunteer fireman and Gonzales city councilmember, argued that the Carmel regional proposal was a system "we could only dream of" and that the South County area also raised community funds for their programs. Furthermore, according to the Carmel region's statistics, it was costing three times as much in the Carmel area to provide the same amount of services as South County provided.

South County covers 1,800 square miles in comparison to the 200 square miles in the Carmel region.

All agreed that South County should get its subsidy right away so it could continue to provide emergency service and the Carmel regional council should make presentations to the other regional councils to explain their program.

EDITORIAL: THE LOCAL MERCHANT

Why patronize that local merchant? Is it solely because you want to keep his good will? The answer comes in no uncertain terms; that merchant is dependent upon you, and you are dependent upon him. Stop and consider what you would without him, and then measure his value to you and your community in terms of civic and economic loss if he were to move from our midst.

The local merchant lives on the Monterey Peninsula; he buys what he can in and about the peninsula; his wife, his children — his all — are here. He had faith enough in this section to settle here.

Think twice before you spend your money away from home for goods you can buy here, where every courtesy awaits you and every opportunity for fair dealing is available to you.

CARMEL'S SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT NEARING COMPLETION

A gadget to delight the eye of any amateur engineer in Carmel is to be seen on the banks of Carmel River a half mile west of the far side of the Carmel River bridge. It's the new $100,000 sewage disposal plant, which will be completed within ten days or two weeks — but here's the hitch, you sightseers! The plant positively won't be open to visitors for another two or three months, until the engineer has had time to check and adjust its operation.

About the end of the year, you'll be invited to come and see the complete and scientific treatment of sewage so as to contribute no unclean effluent to the river and no smell to taint the air.

NON-PROFIT GROUP BEST TO DEVELOP CULTURAL CENTER

Members of the Sunset Committee will be asked to vote on recommendations for a municipal cultural and community center on the Sunset School site, after it becomes city property on January 1, 1965, on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the city hall, Frank Putman, chairman of the committee, announces.

The interim report recommends that the most desirable development of the site would be a creative arts center built and operated by a group of Carmel art, music and theatre organizations by lease agreement with the city, in accordance with a proposal of the finance subcommittee.

An arts council made up of representatives of Carmel cultural groups elected by their own membership at regular intervals — and also including representation from the city council, the arts commission, the planning commission and Harrison Memorial Library board — could become the Sunset governing board. Such a board should be a non-profit corporation and should enter into a contract with the city to lease the Sunset site on a long-term basis.

NEW RED CROSS AMBULANCE CONTINUES OLD TRADITION

The Carmel ambulance maneuvers through the congested traffic in the downtown district, its siren blaring as it rushes to answer another emergency call.

A familiar sight in the downtown area, it occurs three to four times a day. That's the average number of emergency calls the Red Cross ambulance of the Carmel Fire Department answers during its round-the-clock service to the city and surrounding areas.

The service area for the ambulance fans out from the City of Carmel and its nearby unincorporated areas, south to Malpaso Creek below the Carmel Highlands and three miles up Carmel Valley to San Carlos Ranch Road.

Until one month ago, the ambulance that served this broad and busy area was a ten-year-old Cadillac. It had performed faithfully through 40,000 miles of emergencies. But like all well-used equipment, the vehicle had reached a point of wear that made it unreliable.

Officials of the fire department and the Red Cross realized last year that the $13,000 Cadillac ambulance, which had been bought and paid for in 1969 by the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross, had to be replaced.

Late last month a brand new $33,000 truck-type ambulance, loaded with the latest medical and communications equipment, arrived at the Carmel Fire Department station on Sixth between San Carlos and Mission.

MS. PAPINEAU WINS AWARD FOR FEATURE STORY ON COAL WALK

Anne Papineau, staff writer for the Carmel Pine Cone and news editor of the Monterey Peninsula Review, was named a winner in the California State Fair/Sigma Delta Chi Media Awards Competition. Winners were announced Aug. 17 at the State Fair in Sacramento.

Ms. Papineau won the best feature story award for her article, Strolling the Coals: Good for the Sole?, a feature about firewalking in Carmel Valley that was published May 31. Her article was entered in the weeklies/semi-weeklies/monthlies division of the competition, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, the Society of Professional Journalists.

wearing a turban and his beard dyed with henna to avoid detection seemed quite natural, he says.

"The culture shock is when I return to America and reassemble my life," says Conway, 43. "It's almost impossible to tell anyone of the life there."

He says even learned doctors have difficulty relating how cruel life has become for the Afghani people.

"People just can't speak of it," he says. "It's so strange; it's difficult to bring that story back."

Even though it may be painful, Conway believes that such an experience is beneficial to his children.

"That's why I take my children away from this land of VCRs and BMWs," he says, referring to the Carmel lifestyle. "I want them to experience where survival is the first order of the day."

The Forge in The Forest Theater

SUMMERTIME on the Monterey Peninsula offers a variety of entertaining activities both indoor and outdoor. Dining al fresco, shopping for the best antiques, premiere screenings, entertaining local and foreign visitors and theatrical performances.

The Forge in the Forest was the furnace igniting the Forest Theater's special performance Wednesday, Aug. 23, with a capacity house. Usually, the theater operates Thursdays through Sundays and the stage is dark on other nights. But, this was an exceptional evening with the complete house booking bought by Daniel I. Glosser.

Mr. Glosser, proprietor of The Forge in the Forest and The General Store, is fairly new on the Carmel business beat and decided to give a get-acquainted party for other business people by inviting them to a special performance of Show Boat at the outdoor theater.

Dan, who lived in Carmel for six years some time ago, told me, "I knocked around the world, made a few bucks, bought a business here and a home in Carmel Woods and moved back to spend my September years."

Being intrigued with one of Carmel's cultural jewels, the enchanting Forest Theater, he talked with Gary Ibsen who introduced him to Hamish Tyler, president of the Forest Theater board of trustees (and director of Show Boat) and v.p. Peter Neuman. Thus the special performance was arranged through the Theater Guild.

Picnic baskets were brought or supper and popcorn purchased from Carmel Cafe concession stands to benefit the Forest Theater Guild. Exceptional wine donated by the Monterey Vineyard was the liquid refreshment. After appetites were sated, Gary Ibsen thanked Mr. Glosser for his generous support of the Forest Theater and the show was on! The dramatic Show Boat that sailed onto centerstage at the end of the overture by musical director Kerry Thompson was designed by Carey Crockett.

The warming fires blazed on each side of the amphitheater and the audience was also warmed by old familiar songs. Only Make Believe, Ol' Man River, Why Do I Love You, Bill and Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man. Dr. Reggie Bennett (a neurosurgeon and a graduate of Yale) played Joe and sang the well-known and well-loved Ol' Man River.

Tyler family was well-represented in Show Boat with Tyler directing; his wife, Garyth, playing Ellie May Chipley; their daughter cast as Kim and sons Bryan and Evan were follow-spot operators. In fact, several other families participate in Forest Theater productions. That is what makes community theater achieve such warmth and greatness.

Not only did Mr. Glosser purchase the special Wednesday night house but also bought 150 tickets for a weekend so that disadvantaged youth and older people would have an opportunity to attend a live theatrical performance. Thank you, Dan Glosser.

GOING UNDERWATER to explore the unseen world below us resulted in an indoor vicarious adventure on Saturday evening when marine scientist Jean-Michel Cousteau returned to the Monterey Peninsula. He flew in from New York, previously visiting Paris, Australia and only he knows where else.

Ignoring the jet lag, he came right over to Keck Auditorium at Stevenson School to narrate excerpts from A Rendezvous in Papua New Guinea, a Cousteau Society film that will be made into three one-hour television specials to be released in January on the Turner Network (along with videos, books, etc.).

Mr. Cousteau told me that he had been going to PNG on dives (often six times a day for months) since 1973. He wanted to find something he could show his father in return for all the things his father had shown him. Jacques Cousteau was delighted with the area and as a result the Society's crew, two boats and helicopter assembled in June 1988 for six months of intensive filming. Once, after his father had gone for a deep dive he said to his son, "I'm going to design equipment for old people." And he did.

Mr. Cousteau started the film narrative by "inviting the audience into the editing room for a taste of what Papua New Guinea is all about." The final editing has not been completed and unfortunately he did not show any film of the Highlands area.

He found PNG the most unknown, the most primitive, and the most unexplored country in the world — a country that uses one-half of all languages on earth. All excerpts were fascinating. Those below sea level and those above certainly whetted the appetite for more adventures.

Some of the Society's discoveries were startling. In their diving expeditions they saw the effects of WWII still there 45 years later. They found planes, cargo ships, trucks, human bones, piles of ammunition along with a dazzling display of underwater plant and fish life.

He voiced his environmental concerns based on the Cousteau Society's years of work all over the world saying,

"There is a thin layer of oil on all the water — that's 72 percent of our earth's surface." He added, "I am also concerned about Antarctica and protecting it for the generations to come. A million signatures have been secured in France to protect it."

Concerns raised during the exploration of PNG included the discovery that the Japanese are decimating thousands of acres of forest to make chopsticks, and the presence of oil and mineral engineers gauging the potentials of the country.

He feels reassured that the Cousteau Society has gained so much international support since its founding in 1981. There are 72,000 members in France, 250,000 in the USA, plus those in other parts of the world.

Gary and Emma Koepfel, owners of Coast Galleries in Pebble Beach and Big Sur, invited Mr. Cousteau to appear as part of the 3rd annual California Marine Art Expo with proceeds of the evening going to the Cousteau Society. Mr. Koepfel presented Mr. Cousteau with a commemorative poster by Richard Petit and offered the attendees of the premiere screening the opportunity to purchase the poster for half price.

ANOTHER ADVENTURE was found in Pacific Grove. Going back about 230 million years to the Mesozoic Era, (long before the age of mammals we all recognize), the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History brought in an exciting exhibit to show the evolution of dinosaurs that dominated the earth. Computer animation brought to life eight gargantuan dinos. These fascinating and sometimes frightening creatures were described as "three-horned face," "winged and toothless," "tyrant lizard" and so on.

There were dynamos behind the dinos. An undertaking of this magnitude could not have reached realization without generous support. In this case, pledging $50,000 to acquire and install the show. The commitment paid off — it was a gigantic success.

The Museum gave an appreciation party for those who made the Dinosaurs Alive! exhibit a success. Invited were the 55 volunteers who worked six hours a day, six days a week, for 67 days meeting an attendance record of over 50,000 visitors.

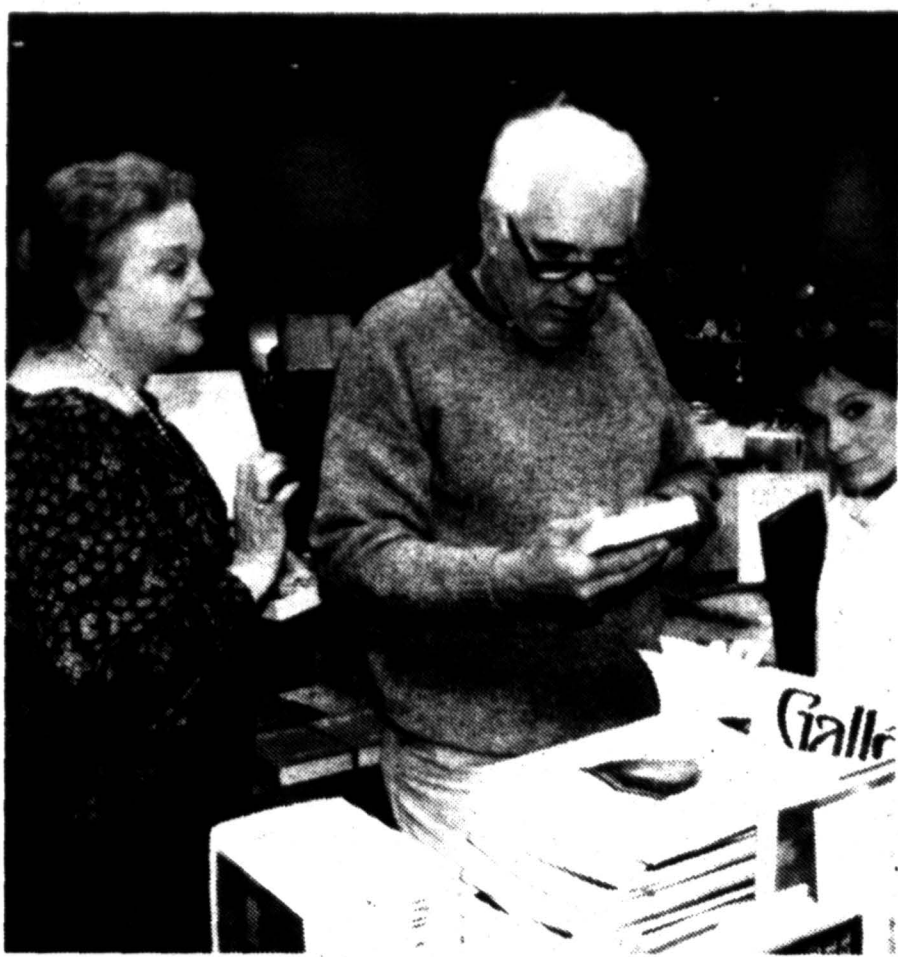

Many of these visitors discovered the museum for the first time and many local citizens rediscovered it. The number of children with a special interest in the prehistoric animal inhabitants of our land almost equalled the number of adults.

San Francisco culinary artist Joseph Schmidt, who made 300 chocolate dinosaurs for the exhibit's opening night, made dinosaur cookies and truffles for the 'Dino Thank You Party.' The exhibit closes Aug. 31.

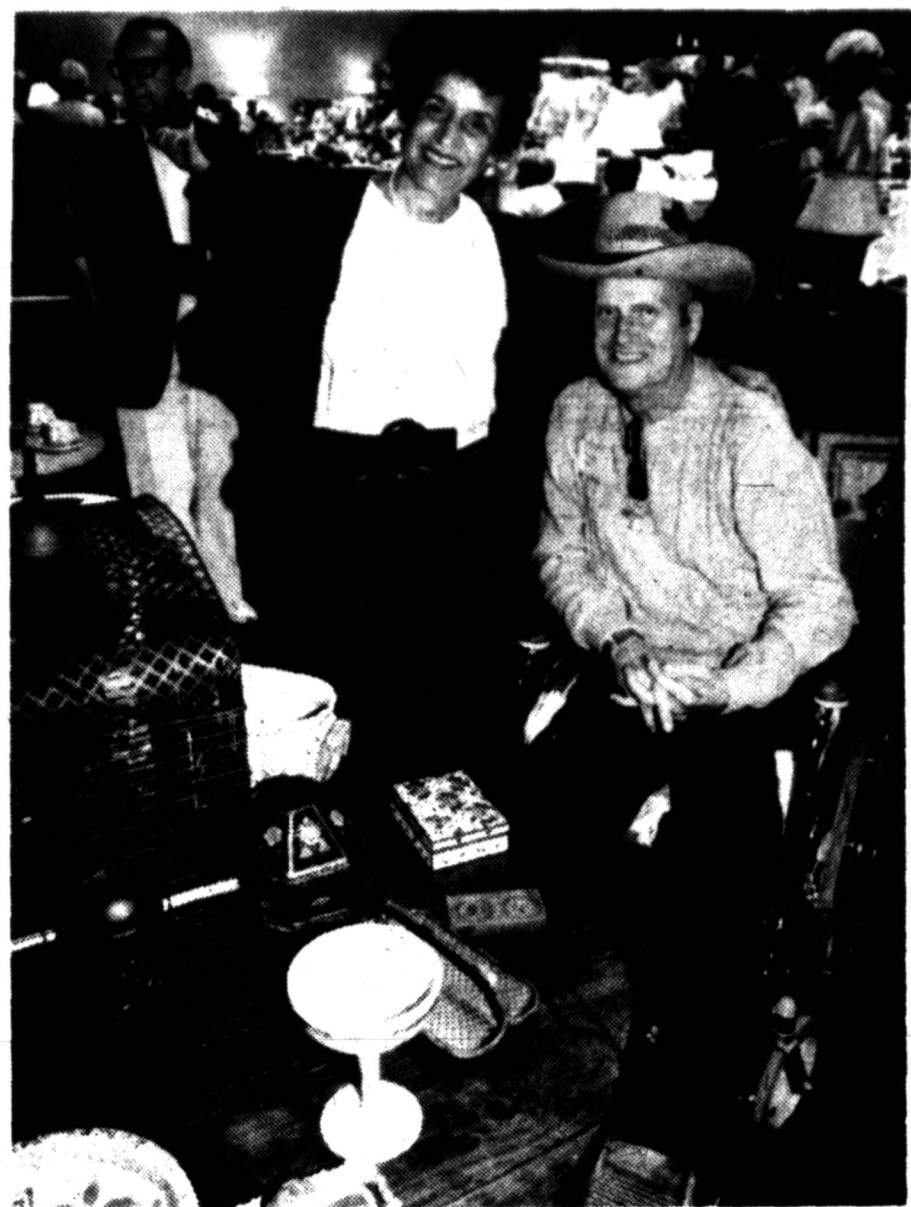

A JOURNEY into the cultural and artistic past — but for only a century or so — was an offertory this past weekend. Crystal was glittering, lamps glowing, silver gleaming, jewelry from yesteryear sparkling. These and other rare and assorted pieces from here and abroad were shown at the Annual Hospice Antiques Show and Sale.

Royal Danica plates stood proudly (they are among the world's most expensive porcelains) and the jewelry is still beautiful and still in vogue. Fine paintings and antiquarian books, of course, never go out of style.

Twenty-eight dealers, who are authorities in their fields, came from Carmel (5), Moss Landing (1), several from Los Altos, one from San Francisco and a couple from as far away as Newport Beach. The organizers were Artie Early, Lewis Scott and Jack Keller.

Everyone looked, everyone was tempted and many happy purchasers walked out of San Carlos Hall.

Martin team felt the need for a glass of the bubbly.

Marc and Michele Vedrenes, owners of The French Poodle Restaurant in Carmel, barely had time to chill a magnum of champagne before the doorbell rang at their Pebble Beach home.

In the party, not only David Brown, (boss of the Aston Martin team in the '50s and '60s) but several race drivers. Tony Brooks, who holds a record of winning five Grand Prix races in 14 months. Paul Frere won the Le Mans (34 hour) with the Ferrari team in 1960 and finished second in 1959 with MT Aston Martin team. Maurice Trintignant raced for 28 years winning Monaco twice, Pau three times, Le Mans 24-hour twice, and in Buenos Aires and Belgium once each. Roy Salvadori won the 24-hour Le Mans in 1959 with Carroll Shelby.

The drivers had fun looking at the book of the Grand Prix, The Cruel Sport by Robert Daley, which is not available in France.

The MP Chamber held its 'first salmon fest' last Sunday evening. Looks as though this will become an annual event. All the ingredients for a good party came together: good food, good weather, good music, camaraderie.

It was called "The First Annual Salmon Fest" so the entree was announced in the invitations. The sun was shining in Memory Gardens as Eddie Mendenhall's B-Natural Trio played dinner music. Chamber members and their guests were delighted to be together dining alfresco and anticipating door prizes donated by KSBW-TV, Los Laureles Lodge, Ventana Inn and the Hyatt at Union Square.

The idea came from former Chamber president Sherrie McCullough. She enlisted assistance from Judi Phinney, Tiffany Reppe, Jack Holt, Gary Ibsen and Carol Charbajian.

Major sponsors were the merchants of Del Monte Shopping Center, who were all too busy to attend, and the Eureka Federal Savings and Loan with Ruth Courtney as representative.

FRENCH ALLIANCE PLANS MEMBERSHIP TEA

The French Alliance of the Monterey Peninsula announces its annual Membership Tea, to begin at 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 9 at the home of Professor and Mrs. Wilhelm K. Weber in Carmel for members and prospective members.

This event, welcoming new members, traditionally represents the opening of activities sponsored each year by the Alliance Francaise on the Peninsula. For complete details, interested persons should call either the President, Mrs. Gilles Cantin, evenings, (375-1801), or the Hospitality Chairman, Mrs. Loran List (624-9113).

The Alliance Francaise de la Peninsule de Monterey is a non-profit corporation devoted to promoting the knowledge and use of the French language and the appreciation of French culture. Membership is open to all who are interested in these goals. Besides its social and cultural events throughout the season, the Alliance sponsors an annual French contest for high school and college students on the national and local levels, awarding prizes and scholarships for study in France. Honorary president is Mrs. Jehanne B. Salinger-Carlson. Current officers for 1989-1990 are: Mrs. Gilles Cantin, President; Mrs. Danielle Chavy Cooper, First Vice-President; Professor Gilbert Melese, Second Vice-President; Ms. Robin Gregory, Secretary; and Mrs. Gisele Matilla, Treasurer.

Wedding Day

BRAD LANGLEY of Carmel and Gina Davi of Seaside were married at the Carmel Mission Basilica, with Fr. Ron Shirley, a longtime friend of the groom, celebrating the nuptial mass. More than 500 relatives and friends gathered for the special occasion, which was followed by a dinner-dance at the Barbara McNitt Ballroom at Naval Postgraduate School. The bridegroom is the son of Jim and Lou Langley of Carmel and is a graduate of Carmel High School. He is currently employed by the Northern California Golf Association's Poppy Hills Golf Course. Brett Langley of Monterey served as Best Man and his other two brothers Brennan and Bryan served as ushers. The bride's Maid of Honor was her cousin Gina Maria Davi of Monterey. Her paternal grandmother, Giovanna Davi attended the wedding from Isola della Femine in Sicily. She is the daughter of Tony and Sandi of Seaside, is a Monterey High graduate and is currently employed by the Spanish Bay Golf Links. After a honeymoon in Maui, the couple made their home in Monterey.

DAR HONORS NEW MEMBERS

A welcoming tea to honor new members of the Commodore Sloat Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was held on Aug. 22. Mrs. Gregg McKee was hostess of the event, which was held at her Carmel home.

The new Executive Board of the Commodore Sloat Chapter, presided by Regent Alida Lehman, welcomed the following new members who attended the event: Marianne Leffler, Mrs. Charles S. Jarrett, Mrs. J. Eugene Morgan, Mrs. James White, Mrs. James deLorimier, Mrs. Harold Kren, Mrs. Carl Hering, Hildegard Severson, Miss Lynn Bynum, Mrs. Robert Traganza, and Mrs. Glen Bernhardt.

The next event for the Commodore Sloat Chapter will be on Tuesday, Sept. 19 at the Constitution Week Luncheon, with Dr. Henry Littlefield as speaker.

VOLUNTEER CENTER COORDINATES PROJECT FOR NON-PROFIT CENTER

The Volunteer Center of the Monterey Peninsula is coordinating a project to bring several small non-profits into a central location on the Monterey Peninsula. Seven agencies including the American Red Cross, Buddy Program, Leadership Monterey Peninsula, Monterey Rape Crisis Center, Monterey County Special Olympics, Monterey County Film Commission, and the Volunteer Center have already committed to the project.

Born out of the project will be a separate legal entity formed to facilitate the acquisition of a building which is centrally located, has approximately 10,000-square-foot, is handicapped accessible, near a public transportation line and has adequate parking. The Site Search Committee is presently researching possible buildings.

"This project will help small non-profits to cut their personnel and material costs and better coordinate among themselves," stated Ruth Lyons, Chairperson of the Housing Committee. Involved with the various committees of the project is a legal counsel, an architect, a real estate agent and board members of the committed agencies.

Anyone interested in learning more or contributing to the project should call Mary Barros, executive director of the Volunteer Center, at 373-6177.

"I ASKED GOD"

*I asked God for strength, that I might achieve...
I was made weak,
that I might learn humbly to obey.
I asked for health,
that I might do greater things...
I was given infirmity,
that I might do better things.
I asked for riches,
that I might be happy...
I was given poverty,
that I might be wise.
I asked for power,
that I might have the praise of men...
I was given weakness
that I might feel the need of God.
I asked for all things,
that I might enjoy life...
I was given life,
that I might enjoy all things.
I got nothing that I asked for,
but everything that I had hoped for.
Almost despite myself,
my unspoken prayers were answered.
I am among all men, most richly blessed.*

Other society officers are: Mary Balbo, vice president; Grace Randlett, secretary; and Margaret Young, treasurer.

CHS STUDENT COMPLETES YALE SUMMER COURSE

Trent Teti, a junior at Carmel High School, completed the course of study at the 1989 Junior Statesmen Summer School held on the Yale University Campus.

The Junior Statesmen Summer School offers an academically advanced program for outstanding high school students. The curriculum includes advanced American government and speech communication. The American government course is enriched by a speakers' program which gives the students an opportunity to meet and question state legislators, national political candidates, members of the national press corps, United Nations ambassadors and members of the financial community.

A Congressional workshop provides a forum for student debate of contemporary political issues. These legislative sessions serve as a practical workshop for the skills and information acquired in both American government and speech communication.

OBITUARIES

Constance Robinson

Memorial services took place Aug. 16 at the First Presbyterian Church of Carmel, for Constance Heron Robinson of Carmel Valley, who died Aug. 12 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 82.

Born Sept. 26, 1906 in Los Angeles, she was a daughter of Herbert Heron, an actor, former mayor of Carmel and founder of the Forest Theater in Carmel. Mrs. Robinson resided in the county for the past 40 years.

She started acting at the Forest Theater as a young girl. She was a leading lady for Orson Welles in Shakespearean productions in Chicago and Woodstock, Ill.

She also acted on radio, playing on the Mary Martin series among others.

Mrs. Robinson was a life member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur, and several nieces and nephews.

Cremation took place at the Monterey City Cemetery, under the direction of Mission Mortuary.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Monterey County SPCA.

sons, Jeffrey of Pacific Palisades, Daniel of Pasadena and Steven of Pebble Beach; his mother, Ann Hyde of Monterey; two brothers, Floyd of Washington, D.C., and Stuart of Corte Maders.

Dr. Hyde's wife of 45 years, Peggy, died last November.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions go to the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Alfred H. Dewees

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Alfred Henry Dewees, an account executive with the N.W. Ayer advertising firm in San Francisco for 37 years, who died Aug. 14 at the Canterbury Woods Medical Unit in Pacific Grove. He was 92.

Born Nov. 29, 1896 in Paoli, Pa., he moved to Carmel in 1973 from San Anselmo (Marin County). He was known to friends as Dewey.

A birthright Quaker, he was a 1918 graduate of Haverford College, where he was a member of the school football, basketball, baseball and cricket teams.

While he was with N.W. Ayer, his accounts included Plymouth, Boeing Aircraft, the Western Pine Association, Golden State Dairy, French Line and Hills Bros. Coffee.

While living at Hacienda Carmel, he continued to pursue his interest in nature and conservation.

Survivors include his wife, Anne; a sister, Dorothy of West Chester, Pa.; two daughters, Carolyn of San Anselmo and Barbara Donzel of San Rafael; a son, David of Jalisco, Mexico; two stepdaughters, Betsy Humphreys and Susan Parker, both of Portsmouth, N.H.; nine grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Mr. Dewees' first wife, Helen, to whom he was married for 49 years, died in 1973.

At his request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to Services for Seniors, 1011 Cass St., Suite 101, Monterey 93940, or the Family Service Agency, 544 Pearl St. Monterey.

Dr. Vernon E. Hyde

A memorial service took place Aug. 16 at the Church of the Forest at Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach, for Dr. Vernon E. Hyde of Pebble Beach, who died Aug. 13 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 71.

Born Aug. 17, 1917 in Richmond, he grew up in Fresno and earned a doctorate in dental sciences from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in San Francisco. He later specialized in periodontics and practiced in Monterey since 1967.

During World War II, he served as an officer with the Navy and Marines.

He achieved prominence in his specialized dental field, and was named to the American College of Dentistry and the International College of Dentistry. He was also selected as a diplomat of the American Board of Periodontics. In recent years, he was in demand as a guest lecturer in periodontics.

Survivors include three

Pearl Turner Hoy

Pearl Turner Hoy of Pebble Beach, a pianist and music teacher, died Aug. 11 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 88.

Born Nov. 21, 1900 in Trojan, S.D., Mrs. Hoy was a well-known pianist and piano teacher in the San Francisco Bay area for more than 30 years. She had a studio at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco for many years, and a studio and residence in San Mateo.

Among her pupils were performers with the San Francisco and Oakland symphonies. She retired in 1977 and moved to Pebble Beach with her husband, Edward.

She conducted a master class at a state music convention in Asilomar many years ago.

Her memberships included the Music Teachers Association of California and the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Carmel.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Shirley Turner of Stockton; and a brother, A. L. Slaughter of Lead, S.D.

At Mrs. Hoy's request, no services took place. The family suggests any memorial contributions be sent to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Carmel.

Rudolph H. Nichols

Memorial services and inurnment will take place in Michigan for Dr. Rudolph H. Nichols of Carmel, a professor at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, who died Aug. 15 at Overlook Hospital in Summit, N.J. He was 77.

Born Dec. 6, 1911 in Bellaire, Mich., he attended Hope College and received a doctorate in physics at the University of Michigan.

From 1939 to 1946 he was associate director of Harvard University's Electro-Acoustic Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass.

In 1946 Dr. Nichols joined Bell Laboratories in New Jersey and supervised work on underwater systems for submarine detection for the Navy in Bell's Ocean Acoustics Research Department.

He served as chairman of the National Academy of Sciences' National Research Council panel on marine noise measurement from 1966 to 1968, and as chief scientist of the Office of Naval Research PARKA project from 1968 through 1971.

After retirement in 1976, Dr. Nichols continued consulting on projects for the Navy and from 1984 to 1986 was named to the chair for underwater acoustics in the physics department of the Naval Postgraduate School.

He was serving as visiting research professor at the Navy school at the time of his death.

Dr. Nichols is the author of scientific works on underwater sound, was a Fellow of the Acoustical Society of America and served as associate editor of the society's journal.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, and a daughter, Dr. Nancy K. Nichols of the University of Reading, England.

Oliver S. McCleary

Cremation, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, took place for Oliver Stelling McCleary, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, who died Aug. 5 at his Carmel home. He was 101.

Born May 14, 1888 in Newcomerstown, Ohio, he was a 1911 graduate of West Point Military Academy and served in the Army from 1917 to 1945. He had lived in Carmel for 49 years.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth; son, Robert of Napa; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Beatrice Thaney

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, for Beatrice Thaney, who died Aug. 15 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 70.

Born March 3, 1919 in Seattle, Mrs. Thaney lived in Pacific Grove and Carmel for 10 years. A model for Vogue and other fashion magazines, she went to New York City and modeled under the name Bea Blaxton in the 1940s. She appeared on the cover of such magazines as Vogue, Ladies Home Journal and Mademoiselle.

Her husband, Eugene Thaney, a former FBI agent, died in 1981.

Survivors include two sisters, Mary Keller and Jane Brown, both of Palo Alto; and a brother, John Runner of Fresno. Another brother, Ralph Runner, preceded her in death.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

Drivers and other volunteers are needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed into service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Poland said there are 22 routes, three of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in Pacific Grove).

Almost all of the help is from volunteers. Poland said, so often the agency ends up short-handed. If you would like to volunteer to help out, contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

The tongue can be a lethal weapon

Carmel Pine Cone
Aug. 28, 1980

Samuel Foote was an English barrister who gave up the law to become playwright and actor in the 1740s. His gift of mimicry made him a figure of fear and delight among the London cafe society of his day. David Garrick befriended Foote and avoided ridicule by flattery. Samuel Johnson thought Foote's wit was irresistible until he became the target of his satire. He threatened to break every bone in his body.

London society considered Foote a man of many and varied talents, but his mind was incapable of employing his talents except in savage and unmerciful attacks upon others, even his closest friends.

He wrote two plays about the notorious Duchess of Kingston.

He met his match. She hired "agents," Mafia-type hitmen, and they harassed Foote with such force that he had to leave the stage and retire to Dover in Kent, where he died, to the relief of most of his peers. He is buried in Westminster, to the surprise of his many enemies.

We all have the ability to put our foot in our mouth and sometimes we manage to put both of them there.

Oh Lord, help us guard our tongue and keep us from vicious words like those used by Samuel Foote.

The tongue can be a lethal weapon and if we live by the sword we can perish by it.

We delight in the verbal savagery of men like Foote until we become their football.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The Federal Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program provides monthly cash assistance to low-income aged, blind and disabled Americans — up to $388 for an individual, $565 for an eligible couple. But 48.5 percent of those eligible don't get the benefits, the American Association of Retired Persons found. Why not? More than one-third of those eligible never heard of the program. Others wrongly believe regular Social Security payments disqualify them.

Sisters Pearl and Belle Joseph grew up in an era when "women weren't supposed to climb trees." Still, Pearl, 58, and Belle, 72, value exercise. But they found today's exercise videos don't suit older people. So they produced their own — "Fit after 50" — led by a physical education professor Faith Trotta. She presents simple exercises aimed at developing flexibility, strengthening muscles and teaching relaxation, "without any of the jumping up and down," says Belle.

Remember When? December 10, 1952 — The Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded to Dr. Selman Waksman for the discover of streptomycin as a treatment for tuberculosis.

Free car care checks scheduled at Crossroads

The California State Automobile Association (CSAA) is offering motorists in the Carmel area a free car check as part of its Free Car Care Program. The service will be offered at The Crossroads, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 7 and 8.

The Free Car Care Program is designed to help motorists understand the importance of preventive maintenance in preserving their vehicles' value and keeping it running efficiently.

The free car check is an actual check of a vehicle's fluid levels, tire pressure, lights and other important maintenance items. In addition, a free fuel economy test is provided.

The Free Car Care Program operates from a bright yellow van with a banner above it proclaiming, "Free Car Check." The van will be located in the parking area behind Bank of America, visible from Highway 1.

The CSAA will be operating the Free Car Care Program from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Sept. 7 and 8, barring rain.

The AAA-affiliated CSAA provides the "Free Car Check" as well as other aspects of the "Free Car Care Program" as a public service, free of charge. AAA membership is not required and no repairs are performed.

In addition to the "Free Car Check", the "Free Car Care Program" includes a packet containing a written record of the individual Car Check results, a CSAA Car Care Booklet, along with other educational and safety literature.

CSAA hopes to help motorists who no longer use "full-serve" to become more self-sufficient in performing routine maintenance on their cars.

BOTH LANDED AT SAME SPOT

The two parties which made Monterey Bay known and later made Monterey exist both came ashore on the same part of the beach, just south of the Presidio of Monterey on Pacific St., in present-day Monterey. They were groups led by Sebastian Vizcaino in 1602 and Fr. Junipero Serra in 1770. A monument marks the location.

Community of 90 actors enlivens 'Show Boat'

By GARYTH ANN TYLER

WHAT DO three doctors, a baker, a nurse, a trout farmer, two hairdressers, a retired aircraft systems engineer, a baseball player and a professional singer have in common? They're all starring in the classic musical Show Boat, written by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II, which closes this weekend at Carmel's Outdoor Forest Theater.

Show Boat boasts a veritable "community" among its more than 90 performers. In addition to the above named occupations, the production includes several writers, carpenters, homemakers and teachers, a bank teller, several waiters and secretaries, a chef, a local television station employee, and students from elementary school through adult school. Whole families are involved.

At about 6:30 on show nights (every Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday), the members of this "community" arrive at the outdoor theater to put on make-up and costumes. They come together for a common purpose — to teach and delight the audiences who arrive in casual attire with picnic baskets and blankets for the outdoor performance.

There are varying degrees of theater and musical experience in the Show Boat community, from years of acting and voice lessons to no formal training at all. Some, like salesman Jack Doran who plays the evil sheriff, Vallon, are newcomers to the stage; others, like Betty Fowlston, who plays Cap'n Andy's wife Parthy, have acted in local productions for 40 years.

"In the show, Cap'n Andy refers to the Cotton Blossom entertainers as '...one big, happy family,'" observes Leslie MacMillan, homemaker and community theater novice. "I feel that way about the Show Boat cast."

An entire peninsula family dances and sings in the chorus of Show Boat. The father, Dale Wynn explains, "It's something we're sharing together. At home we constantly talk about the show and sing all the songs."

Peninsula photographer Steve Burton has worked all summer behind the scenes building sets while his wife, Kaylene, and daughter, Valerie, participate on the stage.

"The Outdoor Forest Theater has always been oriented toward family shows and family participation," remarks Betty Fowlston. "In fact, my grandson is the third generation to work on the outdoor stage."

Local physician, Reggie Bennet, who sings "Ol' Man River" as Joe in the show, observes "I'm surprised at how much energy one can muster to do a play after a strenuous work day. It's an exciting experience for me, play-acting."

Dan Powers, who plays Steve in Show Boat, has been a Carmel resident for 25 years. He divides his time between the theater and his other occupations, the Monterey Lacrosse Club, the Seaside Bombers Baseball Club, coaching Monterey High School baseball and graduate studies in education at U.C. Santa Cruz. Dan observes, "The Outdoor Forest Theater is a wonderful conduit to creative expression. Interaction with talented people from varied backgrounds tends to expand one's mind and enrich one's heart. The scene at the theater is at times like a church — the quiet forest, the public gathering, the fires, the song, and the tales. It is a magical, spiritual place."

"Community" theater is alive and thriving at the Outdoor Forest Theater. See it for yourself this final weekend, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights at 8 and Sunday at 7:30. You may want to join the "community" yourself for their 1990 summer season. Look for auditions in the spring!

THE WYNNS make acting in Show Boat a family affair. Elsie Wynn readies daughter Kimberly, 7, as daughter Therese, 12, and husband Dale look on.

A GOOD TIME is a keynote of any community theater production. New friendships are made and many outlast the run of the show. Here Lynn Bohnen takes a snapshot of some of the cast members backstage. (Photographs by Alan McEwen).

ARTS & LEISURE

Pebble Beach resident Garyth Ann Tyler sings and dances her way through the Forest Theater staging of "Show Boat."

PARTHY ANN HAWKES (Betty Fowlston) faints when she learns that her daughter is getting married to a murderer in the Outdoor Forest Theater staging of Show Boat. Fowlston is a 40-year veteran of community theater. For some of the other 90-odd cast members, Show Boat represents their first trek on stage. The musical closes this weekend at the theater, located at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

The rare stuff

DIGNITY. Master bassist Ron Carter today embodies that rare stuff. He could, in fact, teach the rather wimpy Hamlet a thing or three. Ron chooses to be — personally, artistically — while verbalizing not much faith in the record industry.

This's so much more than quasi-sensitive lingo. The sensitivity's in the man — it pervaded the West Coast debut of his two-year-old nonet. Through him and in its tasty turn, the unit (including a four-member "cello choir") demonstrated the dignity of jazz understructures for appreciative audiences. Place: bright club and Japanese restaurant called Yoshi's, on the Oakland/Berkeley line.

Tall, slender, dressed flawlessly in a gray business suit, Ron never raised his voice when he said right before a recent evening's first set: "I'm on more than 1,000 recordings. This band's an extension of what I've always heard. Record companies these days are unfair to jazz players. They're interested in 'giants' at age 19, and people over 40 don't exist. If you think I'm cynical, you're exactly right. Cynical, not bitter. Bitterness eats you up; cynicism drives you to another level of awareness about how it all works."

Well, would he pursue a contract to record the unusual group? "I'll hold out for a situation that's best for this music. It's a valid band. I just play what I play — what else can I do? I have my own disciplinary clock. I don't need the industry to tell me how to perform every night."

As soloist, Ron on piccolo bass produced long pianistic lines of utter clarity, along with rich guitar-like chording and dramatic sonorities (from Blanton to Haden and beyond). As conductor, his complete openness to every bandstand nuance became almost painful to watch. The kickoff tune was an announcement: gut blues.

Used mostly for accents, the cellists also work as a separate entity in San Francisco — Carol Buck, Judiaba, Roger Emanuels, Dawn Foster-Dodson. Other personnel (New Yorkers): drummer Louis Nash, Steven Scott (piano), Leon Maleson (full acoustic bass), tasteful percussionist Steve Kroon. Kroon's presence on the payroll made a point. The music deserves these extra textures and tiny, right-on touches.

The band swung. Charts included Miles, Leon Russell, Carter originals. Layered complexities always came back to the root music — stately, unapologetic blues.

Near set's end, another archeological stratum was shown: Sometimes I Feel Like A Motherless Child. While the leader spoke players' names and told when second show would start, those cellos gave us Just A Closer Walk With Thee.

Ron Carter looked at peace with himself. Integrity's gift to those who take that path.

WORD SEEMED pretty darned final today. Mission Ranch Barn has dropped plans for continuation of that high-level jazz series proposed at the historic site. Reason: the recent two-night run featuring Bobby Hutcherson's All-Stars didn't make it financially.

News came from jazz booker Connie Booth. She'd discussed the matter with Mission Ranch exec Steve Nergord just before chatting with this writer.

"Preliminary receipts" led Connie to guess that alto saxist John Handy's group would follow Hutcherson in the series. But then numbers came in from the ticketing service.

CARMEL RIVER

Sebastian Vizcaino, a Spanish navigator, found a pleasant sun-warmed valley with a river running through it to the sea. This stream he named Carmelo, in deference to three Carmelite friars in his exploration party.

1920 CENSUS

The 1920 census set Monterey's population at 5,479, Pacific Grove's at 2,974 and Carmel's at 638.

HIS TRUTH — Master bassist Ron Carter was caught in action at Yoshi's by photographer Will Wallace. See jazz column for Ron's views on recording industry today.

"The final total shows that we lost money," Miss Booth said. "We would have been happy with a break-even. John Handy won't be booked. This quality simply cannot be offered without adequate public support."

Asked about the future over there, Connie thought aloud. "Maybe something like a jazz society subscription series would work. If people want such an arrangement, they can write to me (c/o Kelly-Booth Agency in Monterey) or Steve at Mission Ranch."

KUUMBWA JAZZ Center of Santa Cruz will be dark Labor Day (9/4). After that, hold onto your hat —

Knockout Monday nights for September were made known by main manager Tim Jackson: brilliant Brazil-born pianist and composer Eliane Elias (9/11), Zawinul Syndicate with the tremendously influential Joe Zawinul on keyboards (9/18), former Big Sur pianist Michel Petruccianni (9/25). More on each date as it nears.

SHE ALWAYS PROVIDES loving professionalism and witty moments. Vocalist Madeline Eastman will play the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club on Thursday night (8/31). The backup trio reflects her good taste: pianist Dick Hindman, Seward McCain on bass, Vince Lateano (possibly the planet's most dapper drummer).

Meanwhile, Bay Club booker Teri Waros has crafted an attractive Jazz Festival Week (9/11-17). Specific time slots TBA. Talent confirmed thus far: blazing alto saxist Lanny Morgan plus Smith and Gail Dobson, John Cortes group combining forces with vocalist Scotty Wright, Miss Eastman and the same fine trio, pianist Bob Phillips with Terry Miller on electric bass and vocalizing drummer Dottie Dodgion, Spang-a-lang.

Tenorman Terry Hanck's R&B crew will work Labor Day Weekend (9/1-3). Other offerings: Passage (9/6), Jan Deneau (9/20), Chris Cain (9/22-23), Buddy Conner (9/28), Ken Arconti Blues Band (9/29-30).

WRITERS WHO'RE grabbed by particular richness — Steinbeck's migrant farmworkers, Annie Dillard at Tinker Creek, Don Asher and the late jazz pianist Hampton Hawes — seem fortunate indeed. Reading Santa Cruz author James Houston, one feels that subjects get lucky when he picks them.

Specifically, they gain trained vision. He sees well — and has the internal sense of design that lets characters be themselves without overrunning larger structures. Finally, he has a fine ear for the way folks talk about what they might be.

These qualities all serve the Houston novel entitled Gig. First published at Dial Press (1969), it has been reissued by Creative Arts Books of Berkeley. The 161-page softcover edition costs just $8.95.

Also a jazz-loving bassist, Houston here presents "Seacliff" piano bar player Roy Ambrose and the regulars who expect of him more than they should. Roy's a pro sans illusions about Art and higher rungs. His nightlong interplay with customers (I liked Big Ruth the jazz whistler) reveals the reality behind ostensible listening.

Then there's the music — Gershwin, Cole Porter, Ellington. In Roy's imagination, Fred Astaire and Fatha Hines help him build a tight set. Insider's smarts: "Some tunes, you know, swing by virtue of their lyrics alone. The composer found such a perfect match between melody and phrase, you can play the tune by itself and the unsung words are there behind it, driving it."

Excellent read. At the right price too.

PARK FEST '89 closes out at noon Friday (9/1) in Carmel's Devendorf Park. Peggy and The Party Boys. Freebie.

That's the fine vocalist Peggy Nesbitt Brown. (I wish she'd do a straight-ahead jazz gig with players like Biff Smith, Terry Miller, Bob Blankenship. Amply qualified.)

Workshop teaches ways to build self-esteem

Shirley VanLieu will offer a course on "Secrets of Self-Esteem" through Career Bridge of the YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula.

Dr. VanLieu received her doctorate from USC, and has more than 30 years of professional experience in the field of counseling and psychotherapy.

Through "Secrets of Self-Esteem," individuals can learn 10 strategies for building strong, healthy, self-esteem. Applying these strategies will enhance many aspects of life, in finances, personal relationships and parenting.

The 10-session course is offered through Career Bridge of the YWCA, and will begin Sept. 13th, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the new office of the YWCA, 801 Lighthouse.

Antiques go on sale in Monterey

ANTIQUES AND collectibles ranging from 17th century tapestries to art nouveau and deco accessories and jewelry will be featured at the Bustamante Enterprises Antique Show and Sale, Friday through Sunday, Sept. 1-3, at the Monterey Conference Center.

More than 50 exhibitors from throughout the country will display millions of dollars worth of such rarities as tiffany lamps, Ming vases, Renaissance furniture and paintings, Georgian silver and other unique antiquities.

The items represent practically every era and have been gathered from collections throughout the world.

The Monterey Antique Show is open from noon to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. General admission is $4.

Friday only, special senior citizens' admission is $1. Children under 12 will be admitted free. Free return privileges are offered.

The Monterey Conference Center is located at 1 Portola Plaza, Monterey. Ample parking is available. For information telephone, 646-3770.

Carmel psychic channeler will offer insights

"YOU ARE STANDING on the Mystical Edge" is the topic for Tara, a conscious channel at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday Sept. 5. This presentation of the Psychic Lecture Series will be presented in the Chapman Room at the Sunset Center in Carmel, San Carlos at Ninth.

Tara, formerly known as Jean Tweedie, channels Antar-Ra, a multi-dimensional spirit who has come here to support the higher evolutionary awakening of the planet Earth.

Born and raised in Carmel, Tara has spent most of her life on the peninsula. She attended Sacramento State College with a major in social sciences. She began her spiritual work by studying the works of Henry David Thoreau and the other transcendental poets and with 10 years of study with a protege of Gurdjieff.

The focus of Tara's work with people is to assist them with their personal transformation. She began her career as a massage therapist and energy worker and now leads women's empowerment workshops at Mount Shasta and throughout the state.

There is a $4 fee for the lecture and further information can be obtained by calling 647-8269.

Western Stage ensemble recruits interns

The Western Stage of Hartnell College is currently recruiting for its 10-month acting internship program.

The program begins on Oct. 28 and runs through the end of August, 1990. It involves hands-on acting training through work on projects and productions. The program involves individual coaching as well as in-rehearsal classwork which gives the student the chance to explore areas of acting, style, literature, technique which they may not have had time for in previous training programs.

Interns participate in a variety of productions including one to two productions of the Outreach/Young Audiences project (touring shows for grade and high school students), the Solo Artists Project (which includes the performance of solo pieces, new works, a narrative theatre project or a movement theatre piece), and at least two additional shows.

Work weeks are typically 36 to 48 hours. Packages are available combining the study of acting with the study of other areas in the theatre such as directing, management, marketing, dramaturgy, technical work, etc. Stipends are available for all full time students.

For an audition appointment, or for more information concerning the internship program at The Western Stage, contact Donna Federico, 755-6988 or write The Western Stage, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas, CA 93901.

The Mousetrap

A group of strangers is stranded in a boarding house during a snowstorm — among them is a murderer. Thus the stage is set for Agatha Christie's classic whodunnit, The Mousetrap.

GroveMont Theater completes its summer cabaret season with this classic mystery, which will have a gala opening Saturday, Sept. 2.

Jim Webber directs the play, presented in the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey. The cast includes Kevin Caston, James Brady, Jerry Gill, Sandy Sidener, Jack Whittaker, Gina Ferrari, Michael Weiss and Shirley Fischer.

Reduced price previews are set Thursday and Friday, Aug. 31-Sept. 1.

The gala opening, set 8 p.m. Saturday, will feature a buffet of refreshments and wines. Gala tickets are $20 per person or $35 a pair. The play continues at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 7 p.m. Sundays until Oct. 7. Table seating is available at all performances on a first-come, first-served basis. A menu of sandwiches, soft drinks, beer and wine is offered.

Tickets on Thursdays and Sundays are $8.50 general and $7 for students, seniors and military. Tickets on Fridays and Saturdays are $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and military.

For advance tickets, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. For individual reservations, call GroveMont at 649-6852.

Hello, Dolly!

The glittering 1890s are the setting for Hello, Dolly! The musical, based on Thornton Wilder's The Matchmaker, is presented on the main stage at Monterey Peninsula College.

MPC Main Stage, 980 Fremont St., Monterey. Because parking is very limited during the first two weeks of school, there will be no performances Thursday, Aug. 31 or Sept. 7.

Tickets are $12 general admission; $9 for students, military and senior citizens 60 and older; $6 for children under 13. Reservations may be made by calling the MPC box office, 646-4213 between 4 and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, or Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561; between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Show Boat

The Cotton Blossom docks at Carmel's historic Outdoor Forest Theater for Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II's Show Boat. The classic musical concludes its run this weekend.

Hamish Tyler directs Show Boat for the non-profit Forest Theater Guild.

Final performances are set 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 31-Sept. 3.

Tickets are $12 general; $10 for senior citizens and children 12 and under. Discounts are available for groups of 20 or more. On Thursday, admission is $6 for senior citizens. For reservations, contact Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561.

Inspecting the scene

KEVIN CASTON portrays Sergeant Trotter, who inspects the scene of the crime in Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap. The mystery will have its gala opening Saturday, Sept. 2 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey.

Be sure to dress warmly for the Outdoor Forest Theater shows. The historic theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 755-6816 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

Shooting Stars

A rundown, small town gymnasium where a touring women's basketball team is preparing to face off against a local men's team during Christmas week, 1962, supplies the launching pad for Shooting Stars. High spirited and mostly Southern, the women quickly emerge as distinct personalities in this drama by Molly Newman.

Final performances of Shooting Stars are set at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Sept. 1-2, at The Western Stage.

The theater is at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 755-6816 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

Babes in Arms

The original musical in which an inspired group of kids go all out to prove themselves by putting on a hit show, Babes in Arms, concludes its run at The Western Stage. Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart created the musical in 1937, and it was soon made into a classic Hollywood film.

Its enduring songs include "Where or When," "I Wish I Were in Love Again," "My Funny Valentine," "Johnny One Note" and "The Lady is a Tramp." The Western Stage production is directed by Jackie Schultz.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 1-3.

The Western Stage is headquartered at Hartnell College, 156

Stop the World, I Want to Get Off

Gina Welch-Hagen directs Anthony Newley's allegorical tale that has much to say about man's drive for fame and power and the disillusionment that sets in once these goals are attained.

Stop the World, I Want to Get Off is produced by The Frohman Academy at the New Wharf Theatre. It features such songs as "What Kind of Fool Am I?," "Once in a Lifetime" and "Gonna Build a Mountain."

Barney Hulse serves as musical director of this show and mime choreography is by Bob Colter. The cast includes Jai Hudson, Kristina Harris, Soraya Knight, Solera Smith Thomas, Jon Karachale, Steve Macinnis, Kristine Hardee and Megan Reddporger.

Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays until Sept. 10. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children. The Wharf Theater is located on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. For tickets or information, call 649-3032 or 372-1373.

Actors in the Adobes

ON STAGE

Theater Outreach in Monterey's historic buildings. Showtime is 10:45 and 11:45 a.m. Saturdays through Sept. 9. Admission is free.

The Whaler and the Shopkeeper will be presented on Saturday, Sept. 2 in Monterey's Custom House. Walter Colton and Robert Semple will be staged the same day at Colton Hall, Pacific Street between Jefferson and Madison, downtown Monterey.

The casts include James Webber, Jeff Hudelson, Michael Jacobs, Sue Fishkoff, Morgan Stock, Jeff Heyer, Norman Stottmeister and Mindy Stock.

Funded by Thomas Doud Sr. and Anita M. Doud Fund of the Community Foundation of Monterey County, The Colton Hall Museum and Cultural Arts Commission of the City of Monterey and Monterey History and Art Association.

For more information call 649-0340.

Jennie the Jewel of the West

Fair Jennie is kidnapped by diamond-hungry criminals in the 19th century melodramatic classic, Jennie the Jewel of the West. It plays at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

Coastal Disturbances

The Studio Theater of The Western Stage has been transformed into a New England private beach "...on Massachusetts' North Shore, somewhere between Marblehead and Gloucester," according to the script of Coastal Disturbances, a romantic comedy by Tina Howe.

Like Howe's Painting Churches, Museum and other plays, Coastal Disturbances is replete with bold, modern-day Pinteresque dialogue that defines the spontaneous combustion between Leo, a lifeguard, and Holly, a photographer, who is running from a ruinous affair.

Jackie Schultz directs the comedy. The cast also features Joyce Lower, Dave Parker, Jean Caille, Tracy Huffman, Jamie Jones, Amy Plaskett, Summer Brown, and John and Regina Hicks.

The play is not recommended for children.

Final performances of Coastal Disturbances are set at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Aug. 31-Sept. 1. The theater is at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 755-6816 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

The Nerd

Larry Shue's comedy The Nerd opens The Western Stage's 15th Summer Season in the Studio Theater at the Performing Arts Center at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Directed by Chris Graham, The Nerd will play in repertory through Sept. 3.

A young actor from Hollywood, Richard Kuhlman, plays the Nerd, a Vietnam vet who, in battle, saved the life of a fellow soldier, Willum, played by David DiFrancesco. The Nerd, invited to visit his buddy's apartment in Terre Haute, Ind., soon proves himself to be a genius of gaucherie and an unwelcome guest. His host tries to get rid of his unwanted guest by subjecting the Nerd to culture shock, Terre Haute-style.

Others in the cast include company members Heather McAllister, Suzy Dodd, Frank Davis and Lorraine Fusare.

Curtain is at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 755-6816 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

Forum outlines downside of meat industry

John Robbins, heir to the Baskin-Robbins ice cream fortune, will be the guest speaker at the Monday, Sept. 18 luncheon meeting of The New Forum at the Lodge at Pebble Beach.

Author of the 1987 book, Diet for a New America, Robbins is also the founder of the EarthSave Foundation, an organization that fosters action to preserve the earth's life support systems and to relieve animal suffering wherever possible.

His book and his lectures and workshops sharply condemn the nation's meat, dairy and poultry industries for use of toxic substances and for inhumane treatment of animals.

"I was born in the heart of the Great American Food Machine," Robbins said. "From childhood on it was expected that I would some day take over and run the world's largest ice-cream company. But when the time came, I said 'no'. I had a dream of a society that is truly healthy, practicing a wise and compassionate stewardship of a balanced ecosystem."

After graduating from the University of California at Berkeley, Robbins and his wife moved to a remote island off the coast of British Columbia where they built a log cabin, learned to grow food, and spent several years in intensive practice of yoga and meditation. After graduate studies in counseling and psychology, he received a master's degree in humanistic psychology.

In 1973, Robbins founded the Rising Spirit Center in British Columbia, which became one of Canada's leading personal growth centers. While directing the center and counseling individuals, he became intensely interested in the environmental condition of the planet. In 1984, he returned to California and began work on his book, Diet for a New America, which deals with how our food choices affect our health, happiness and the future of life on Earth.

Chairman of the New Forum is Senator Mike Gravel, former U.S. Senator from Alaska. The organization seeks creative alternatives to war.

'Art of Polish Posters' opens

"The Art of Polish Posters," an exhibit presented by the Polish Arts and Culture Foundation of San Francisco, will open at the Marjorie Evans Gallery in Sunset Center, Carmel, on Friday, Sept. 1. A reception hosted by the foundation will take place 5 to 7 p.m.

The collection is derived from the permanent collection of the foundation and was the subject of a large-scale exhibit at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. The posters can be viewed 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and on nights of performances in Sunset Theater. Sunset Center is on San Carlos at Ninth in Carmel.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

THE ABYSS: Director James Cameron's (Terminator, Aliens) much-awaited and long-delayed thriller involves a prototype underwater oil-drilling habitat, a disabled U.S. Navy nuclear submarine and mysterious non-terrestrial life forms, all coming together in a journey of action, wonder and discovery. Stars Ed Harris as Bud Brigman, rig foreman on "Deepcore," Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio as his estranged wife, who is also "Deepcore's" project engineer — his superior, and Michael Biehn as a U.S. Navy Seal sent on a rescue mission. Rated PG-13. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

BATMAN: The long-awaited tale of The Dark Knight — Batman — stars Michael Keaton in the title role (and as Bruce Wayne of course), and Jack Nicholson as his arch-nemesis, The Joker. Kim Basinger co-stars as photojournalist Vicki Vale; also with Bill Dee Williams, Robert Wuhl, and Pat Hingle. Songs by Prince, music by Danny Elfman. Directed by Tim Burton (Beetlejuice, Pee Wee's Big Adventure). Rated PG-13. At Cinema 70. 373-4777.

CASUALTIES OF WAR: Director Brian De Palma (Scarface) explores the tenuous relationship between a cruel, battle-hardened sergeant (Sean Penn), and a fresh-faced newcomer (Michael J. Fox) during Vietnam war when their five-man squad kidnaps and rapes a young Vietnamese woman. Based on a true incident. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

CHEETAH: Tale of two California teenagers living in Africa and their quest to rescue their pet cheetah that has been abducted, in the process joining up with Masai warriors and experiencing firsthand the wonders of wild Africa. From Walt Disney Pictures. Stars Kevin Coogan and Lucy Deakins. Rated G. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

DEAD POETS SOCIETY: Robin Williams stars as a joyously eccentric teacher who returns to the school from which he graduated to inspire his students to pursue their individual passions, explore new horizons of self-expression and to discover the excitement of the world outside Welton Academy in this film directed by Australian Peter Weir (Witness, Year of Living Dangerously). Rated PG. At Dream Theater. 372-1331.

DO THE RIGHT THING: Spike Lee stars, directs and wrote this film about one day in the life of a neighborhood pizza parlor, one that ends in disaster with racial overtones. Co-stars Danny Aiello, Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis. Rated R. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

INDIANA JONES & LAST CRUSADE: Harrison Ford returns for a third go-around as adventurer-archeologist Indiana Jones in this action-adventure sequel directed by Steven Spielberg. This time Indiana Jones is after the Holy Grail and once again fighting Nazis, but this time with help from his archeologist father, played by Sean Connery. Co-stars John Rhys Davies, Denholm Elliott, Alison Doody and Julian Glover. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

LET IT RIDE: Richard Dreyfuss stars as a happy-go-lucky but compulsive gambler who hits it big, then finds himself with a lot of "friends" in this comedy. Rated PG-13. At the Carmel Village Theatre. 624-5341.

LETHAL WEAPON II: Mel Gibson and Danny Glover return as two cops on the trail of a group of nasty drug smugglers, this time the villains are connected — and protected — by the South African government in this slambang action-adventure directed by Richard Donner. Also co-stars Joe Pesci. Rated R. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

LITTLE MONSTERS: Fred Savage (of TV's Wonder Years) stars as a kid whose nightmares about monsters and other things that go bump in the night come to life. Also stars Howie Mandel. Rated PG. Opens Aug. 25 at the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

MILLENNIUM: Sci-fi thriller about a passenger airliner that "disappears" with all on board...into the future. Stars Kris Kristofferson as the airline pilot and Cheryl Ladd as a woman from the future. Rated PG-13. At the State III Cinemas. 372-4555.

NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET V: THE DREAM CHILD: Freddy's smarting from the beating he took in Part IV and is back for vengeance. Robert Englund returns as mass murderer Freddy Krueger, with Lisa Wilcox and Danny Hassel as his intended victims. Rated R. At the Hill Theatre with Wired. 375-2800.

PARENTHOOD: An all-star cast heads this comedy directed by Ron Howard (Cocoon, Splash, Willow) about the trials and tribulations of parenthood based on experiences with his own four children. Stars Steve Martin, Jason Robards, Dianne Wiest, Mary Steenburgen, Rick Moranis, Tom Hulse, Martha Plimpton and Keanu Reeves. Rated PG-13. At the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

PETER PAN: The animated Disney classic returns to the big screen, with Peter Pan, Tinker Bell, Wendy John and Michael Darling, and of course, Captain Hook and his nemesis, the ticking crocodile. Rated G. At the Lighthouse Cinemas. 372-7300.

PET SEMATARY: Stephen King's best-selling horror novel about a Indian burial ground that has the ability to bring dead things back to "life" is brought to the screen by director Mary Lambert (Siesta). Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

RAIN MAN: Multiple Oscar-winner (Best Picture, Actor, Director), Rain Man, directed by Barry Levinson, is the top film of 1988. Stars Dustin Hoffman as the idiot savant who has inherited his father's millions and his flashy, money-obsessed younger brother who has his eyes on the millions, and their cross-country journey of discovery and love. Rated PG-13. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

WOMEN ON THE VERGE OF A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN: Sometimes controversial Spanish director Pedro Almodovar tones it down a little, but not much in this sexual farce about women seduced and abandoned and their clever and desperate efforts to get back at the ones who done them wrong. Stars Carmel Maura. Nominated for Best Foreign Film of 1988. Spanish with English subtitles. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

Refugees from the Sixties

Support sought for Cannery Row mural

John Steinbeck may be gone but the spirit of friendship that he shared with Ed Ricketts and the colorful characters who once populated Cannery Row lives on in the Cannery Row Mural Project.

Sponsored by the Cannery Row Business Association and the Monterey Cultural Arts Commission, the project encompasses the efforts of 50 local artists ranging from famed cartoonists Hank Ketcham and Eldon Dedini to nationally known painter Sam Colburn who will transform the blighted end of the row into a 400-foot mural.

And while the artists are expending their creative energies, Cannery Row businesses and residents are sponsoring individual panels for $400 to fund the project. The community has expressed enormous support for the mural, according to Ned Thomas, owner of the Outrigger Restaurant and chairman of the Mural Project Committee, with many sponsorships already pledged.

However, panels are still available, said Thomas, who explained that the sponsor's name will be at the base of each panel for the four years that the mural is expected to hang.

Project Art Director Bruce Ariss, once a close friend of Steinbeck and Ricketts, is providing the artists with rough sketches of life on Cannery Row during its sardine heyday.

For information on sponsorships, call Thomas at 649-5050.

Museum on Wheels seeks volunteers

Museum on Wheels is the multi-cultural outreach program of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art. This mobile museum travels to elementary schools in three counties with a selection of folk, tribal and ethnic art from around the world.

Volunteers travel to school sites with staff two days a month and attend monthly training meetings. They assist with assembly presentations, exhibition tours and folk craft workshops.

An orientation and training meeting will take place Tuesday, Sept. 19. To schedule an interview, call 373-2061 before Sept. 8.

"WINDSWEPT" A Pebble Beach Estate

The Garden of Eden could not be more breathtaking nor serene than "Windswept", nestled among the oaks, pines and redwoods and an easy walk to Carmel. Flora and fauna in spectacular abundance surround the main residence all encompassed by Carmel stone walls and impressive wood and wrought iron gates. A naturalist's dream and a delight to the most discriminating taste.

Designed to lend the feeling of one-with-nature, this Shaw & Burde & Associates architecture combines opulence with warmth and practicality. Clearheart redwood paneling encases you in the living room, diningroom, and hallways as you meander throughout over travertine marble floors. The living room is quiet extraordinary with three conversation areas, a magnificent marble fireplace, illuminated library shelves, and window views framed by foliage of various descriptions. The gallery is wide and expansive overlooking the patio and pathways beyond.

Three bedroom and bathroom suites are decorated in complimentary distinct styles using luxurious fabrics throughout. Royalty could not ask for better guest accommodations than these overlooking the pond and waterfalls.

A large kitchen with adjoining butler's cove and sink enhance entertaining on a large scale, or the breakfast area next to the patio is perfect for family gatherings on an informal basis.

Call Toni Glaser today for an appointment to see this enchanting property. $4,000,000.

OCEAN FRONT HOME
BIG SUR COAST

Today, on the magnificent Sur Coast, it is rare to acquire an ocean front property. We are privileged to present this exceptional 5 1/2 acre headland, reaching out from the spectacular coastline, where the Santa Lucia Mountains meet the Pacific Ocean, 40 miles south of Carmel, with world famed Esalen Institute just to the north.

Noted Monterey Architect, Francis Palm, designed the unique structures, creating an exceptional property of matchless integrity. The main house contains a large circular living room of approximately 800 sq. ft., a master bedroom and bath, with adjoining nursery or sewing room, on the upper level. A second bedroom and bath lie below, as well as a cool grotto for summer dining. The hot tub deck overlooks an enchanting pool filled with water lilies and Koi. Cypress, pines, and lush gardens with winding pathways create the setting for the residence which seems to sit so naturally on the gently sloping promontory.

Across the large paved courtyard, is a small guest or caretaker house, which is a miniature replica of the dodecagon (twelve sided) main residence, and contains 1 bedroom, bath, and living/kitchen area. Two decks and beautiful gardens complement the serene interior feeling.

Built as a primary residence, the house lends itself equally well to a vacation retreat. The property is reached by a short paved driveway off the Scenic Highway, and is served by a well developed private water system.

Price $1,200,000

Please contact our Coast Properties Division for details and an appointment to visit this rare property.
